Query Caudle On Sale Of Airplane

Reputed To Have Received $5,000 Commission on Deal

WASHINGTON, Nov 29—(AP)—T. Lamar Caudle, whose testimony about his out-of-hours activities as former assistant attorney general already has touched on mink coats and oil deals, was recalled today for further questioning by House tax service probers.

One of the things about which he was to be asked, ways and means subcommittee sources said, was a reputed $5,000 commission paid in the sale of an airplane. In advance of the hearing they declined to give details.

Meanwhile, more firings were reported just around the corner for the internal revenue service, purged in a single stroke yesterday of 31 employes.

Since the revenue bureau and the House subcommittee began investigating reports of corruption and inefficiencies, 49 officials have been dismissed or resigned under fire.

Eight have been indicted on criminal charges of fraud or bribery. Cases of 5 of these fired yesterday were turned over to the justice department for possible prosecution. Five other employes are still under suspension, while their records get further study.

Fourth Straight Day

Today was the fourth consecutive day on the stand for Caudle, fired by President Truman 2 weeks ago for "outside activities" while serving as the government's chief tax fraud prosecutor.

Caudle told the House group yesterday:

1. His wife still owes $900 on a $2,400 mink coat purchased last winter through Jacob Landau, New York tax attorney. He testified his wife paid $1,500 on the coat, purchased at wholesale, but now "she's awfully embarrassed about it."

2. Mrs Caudle also arranged for the purchase of 2 more mink coats by the wife of Senator McClellan (D-Ark) and the wife of Kenneth Royall, former secretary of war. McClellan and Royal said they paid for their wives' coats.

3. His daughter Rose got a mouton coat — "that's a little cheap sheepskin coat" — through Landau, but that his wife paid $195 for it. That was $25 more than the same coat would have cost him in Washington, he said.

4. T. Cohen, Atlanta tax attorney and former partner of Landau in a Washington law firm, testified later that his firm paid for the mouton coat and also for still another coat for the wife of Turner Smith, then Caudle's top aide in the Justice Department tax division. Smith resigned this fall and now is in private business.

Cohen said he was told the cost of the 2 coats was $900, and was charged off to firm "business expense". The coats, he said, were treated as Christmas presents.

Sent Check

Cohen testified that Caudle and Smith both expected to pay for the coats. He said Smith actually sent a check, but that it was torn up.

Senator McClellan said in New Orleans last night that "my wife purchased a fur coat in New York at some store recommended by Mrs Caudle."

"I do not know the name of the firm," he said. "I do know I paid for it and gave it to her as a Christmas present."

Royall said in New York he had bought his wife 3 mink coats in the last 15 years through wholesalers, but said he did not recall ever meeting Landau.

Cohen said he "would not have done it" if he had known that the fur coats were to be treated as business expenses. He understood payments for the two coats were OUSTS 30 AS "UNFIT. James B. Dunlap, commissioner of internal revenue, in his office at Washington stormily makes a statement announcing that 30 workers in the federal tax collection service have been ousted as part of his drive to eliminate "unfit" employes. Minutes before, it was announced in Key West that President Truman had fired James G. Smyth, internal revenue collector at San Francisco. It was the biggest single shake-up since an investigation of the service by the House ways and means subcommittee.

More Heads To Fall In Tax Fraud

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—More firings were reported just around the corner today for the internal revenue service, purged of 31 employes in a single day.

Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap, who ordered the mass ouster yesterday, said the nation's tax scandals are "clearing rapidly" but the job is far from finished.

Most of those dismissed yesterday were career employes. Their average length of service was 12 years and 3 of them had more than 30 years.

Forty-nine officials and employes have been dismissed or resigned under fire since the revenue bureau and a House subcommittee began investigating reports of corruption and inefficiency.

Eight have been indicted on

Army Seizes Govt. in Syria

CAIRO, Nov. 29 — (AP) — Syria's strong man — Col. Adib Shishekly—threw out of office today a newly-appointed premier who had urged closer ties between the Arab nations and Russia. The Syrian army seized control of the entire country.

Radio Damascus said Marouf Dawalibi, a Populist party leader who had been named premier only last night, and all members of his cabinet, were placed under arrest.

A broadcast statement from Shishekly charged the Populists with seeking to "undermine the country's independence, break up the army and create a new throne in Syria."

Dispatches from Damascus said the country was quiet. Apparently the army moved in swiftly and took control before any violence could get started.

Shishekly met with President Hashim Bey Attasy and other political leaders. It is believed in Damascus that Dawalibi will be asked to submit his formal resignation, and a figure outside the current controversy will be asked to try to form a cabinet. Former premier Khaled Bey El Azem has been mentioned as a possible premier-designate.

Aid for Aged Checks Due Before Christmas

COLUMBUS, Nov. 29—(AP)—Renewal of the annual custom of mailing all December aid for aged checks before Christmas was announced today by Marion McIntyre, chief of the Division of Aid for the Aged.

The checks normally are mailed to the state's 120,000 recipients on a schedule which runs through the entire month.

McIntyre suggested recipients watch for their checks earlier than usual in order to avoid thefts of the checks from mail boxes.

Ohio Election Investigation In 4th Day

Turn to Taft Charge CIO Made Forced Campaign Collections

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Senators probing the 1950 Ohio senatorial election turn today to an accusation that an involuntary campaign contribution was collected by the CIO Political Action Committee.

A Senate elections subcommittee scheduled as a witness Beryl Peppercorn of Cleveland, an official of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America.

They wanted to ask him about a statement by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) that $1 was deducted for the PAC from the salary of a woman Amalgamated member employed in a Lorain, O. plant in 1950, without her consent.

Taft, the victor over Democrat Joseph T. Ferguson in the 1950 voting, told the subcommittee as its hearing began Monday, that the incident took place, and said forced contributions were illegal. The senator, who did not give names, said he was told of the deduction in a letter to him from the woman's husband. The CIO-PAC supported Ferguson in the campaign.

Hearing in 4th Day

As the hearing entered its fourth day, only three witnesses had appeared—Taft, Ferguson and Jacob Clayman of Columbus, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO-PAC.

Clayman finished his testimony yesterday with an angry suggestion that the subcommittee should not let the hearing be "used as a springboard" by Taft to further his campaign for the 1952 Republican presidential nomination.

He said this is the course of a futile protest against admission into the record of a supplemental statement from Taft replying to testimony Clayman had given Tuesday. Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me) moved that the document be admitted. Senator Hennings (D-Mo), acting chairman at the time, said it would be accepted "for what it is worth."

Says No Smear Intended

Earlier, subcommittee Chairman Gillette (D-Ia) had declared there was "not a scintilla of truth" to statements that the probe was being conducted to smear Taft in his presidential drive. He said 25 letters had come in from over the country making this allegation.

As to the supplemental statement, the subcommittee learned in questioning a Taft aide that the senator had authorized it but never had seen it.

The aide, I. Jack Martin, finally was directed to ask Taft to submit a letter saying he would stand behind the statement. The Ohioan is on a tour in North Carolina.

The statement itself proved to be a compilation of reports from congressional committees describing the CIO-PAC as an organization once dominated by Communists.

Charges Scurrility

On Tuesday, Clayman told the senators that Taft in the 1950 campaign "resorted to scurrility with his constant reiteration of communism-socialist charges aimed at CIO-PAC."

Taft included with the state-

Tanker Rams Trawler

15 Killed In Boston Harbor Ship Crash

BOSTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Fifteen fishermen of a 17-man crew perished last night when the 10,000-ton tanker Ventura smashed into the stern quarter of the 170-ton trawler Lynn in Boston harbor.

None of the 50 crewmen on the Texas Oil Company tanker was injured.

The sea was calm and the night clear at the scene of the crash—a 500-yard wide channel only six miles from the Boston fish pier.

Coast Guard observers said 13 of the victims went down with the trawler, "trapped in its steel hull like sardines in a can," while eating their evening meal or working in the engine room.

No Time For Warning

The other four were plucked from the water by one of several boats in the vicinity, but two died later in a hospital.

Capt. J. Carl McNamara, 41, of Medford, one of the survivors, said the crash came with such little warning that he didn't even have time to give an abondon ship order.

Helmsman John J. King, 40, of Winthrop, the other survivor, said the Lynn went down in about a minute. "The ship flipped over like a fish on the starboard side," he said.

S. O. Pederson of Port Arthur, Tex., skipper of the tanker, told the Coast Guard the fishing vessel "cut across our bow . . . and we rammed her."

Both vessels were outward bound — the Lynn for Georges bank, 180 miles east of Boston, and the Ventura for Philadelphia after discharging gasoline here.

Plane Drops Flares

Within minutes after the disaster, 15 Coast Guard vessels were dispatched to the scene to join fishing boats already scanning the waters for survivors or bodies.

From overhead, a Coast Guard plane dropped flares to light up the area for surface searchers.

About 50 relatives and friends of the Lynn's crewmen gathered at the fish pier looking out at the scene. They could see the ships there silhouetted against the clear sky by the flares.

Some became hysterical when, after several long hours, only four of the Lynn's crew were brought ashore. They seemed to sense that no more would be brought in alive.

All of the Lynn's crewmen were residents of greater Boston.

Previous to arriving in Korea, he was stationed in Japan.

He was an infantryman with the 24th Division.

His mother is Mrs. Joe Buchanan of Lorain, formerly of Marion.

Browns Sign Marty Marion

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 29—(AP)—Marty Marion signed a three-year contract today as player-coach of the St. Louis Browns.

Marion will coach for sure and play if his knee and back permit. He will receive a reported $15,000 salary for coaching and more than $25,000 if he can make a comeback as shortstop.

Marty was fired last Friday as manager of the rival St. Louis Cardinals. Owner Fred Saigh refused to renew his contract and reportedly is trying to hire Eddie Stanky of the New York Giants as the new Redbird pilot.

Marion's switch to the American League Browns was announced this morning at a news conference by Bill Veeck, dynamic owner of the club which is undergoing an overhaul.

C & O Head Denies Report He Will Quit

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Robert R. Young said today he does not contemplate resigning as chairman of the board of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway.

Judge Luray Mouser Rules Desperado Cook Must Die

California Judge, Marion Native, Sentences Killer of Six To Death

William Edward Cook, 23-year-old desperado who kidnaped nine persons and killed six of them, was sentenced to death yesterday by California Superior Judge Luray J Mouser, a former resident of Marion.

Cook, product of wretched environment in a bleak and desolate abandoned mining section near Joplin, Mo., was sentenced to die in San Quentin gas chamber for the murder of a Seattle oil salesman, Robert H. Dewey, The Associated Press reported today.

Judge Educated Here

Judge Mouser, who is the son of John and Dell Jameson Mouser, was graduated from the Marion High School and later continued his education in California where he was graduated from the University of California in the class with Governor Earl Warren. The family lived on Mt. Vernon Ave. before moving to the coast. His father was associated with the old Fairbanks Steam Shovel Co. and other Marion industries here.

WILLIAM EDWARD COOK

Judge Mouser, whose home is in El Centro, is a cousin of Miss Grace Cunningham of 707 Mt. Vernon Ave. and Mrs. George E Frank of 490 East Center St. He was a guest in their homes and also visited with other relatives and friends here last summer. His sister, Mrs. Glen Mouser Carpenter and her husband, Charles Carpenter, whose home was in San Diego, visited here two years ago. Both are deceased.

Already Under Sentence

Cook, the five-foot four-inch self-styled badman already was under sentences of 60 years each in connection with the kidnaping murders of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mosser and their three children of Atwood, Ill., an Associated Press dispatch states. The sentences were to be served consecutively.

The federal director of prisons, James V. Bennett, may now order the transfer of Cook from the federal prison at Alcatraz Island to California's San Quen-

Six More Steel Firms Get CIO Union Demand

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 29 —(AP)—Philip Murray's CIO United Steelworkers handed their 22-point contract demand to six more steel companies today as negotiations with U. S. Steel entered the third day.

Among the half dozen companies getting a first glimpse of the demands, which Murray says include a substantial wage increase clause, are Bethlehem Steel Co., Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. and Republic Steel Corp.

The demands were given to U. S. Steel representatives Tuesday and yesterday one of Murray's top aides presented the demands to Aluminum Company of America.

The talks with U. S. Steel will be continued behind closed doors, with both Murray and vice president John A. Stephens of U. S Steel agreeing to withhold progress reports on negotiations.

The negotiators said the closed door policy will speed settlement by maintaining harmony at the conference table.

The meeting with Aluminum Company representatives was recessed until Dec. 11.

Usually all the other steel companies adopt a wait-and-see policy and then follow the example set by U. S. Steel.

Vishinsky's Reply Awaited

PARIS, Nov. 29 — (AP)—The debate on disarmament droned on in the United Nations political committee today as delegates waited to hear whether Soviet foreign minister Andrei Vishinsky will agree to secret Big Four talks on the issue.

The explosive Russian put his name as the 14th on today's speakers list, which meant the 60-nation committee probably would not get his answer until the sun has set. The lengthy list could even mean Vishinsky's speech would be put off until tomorrow.

The conviction grew, meanwhile, among U.N. officials and observers that Vishinsky would accept the Arab-Asian proposal for the private talks. They reasoned that refusal would place the Russians in the embarrassing position of rebuffing a move for peace."

OHIOAN IS "CORN KING." Farmer Willard Kirk, 53, from Jeffersonville, O., chosen "corn king" at the hay and grain show held in connection with the 1951 International Livestock Exposition in Chicago, holds up one of his winning samples of Indiana hybrid yellow corn. Kirk is first Ohioan to win the title in the 32-year-old history of the event.

Former Mayor Buckley Found Unconscious

Retired Pastor Had Wandered From Home Early in Day

The Rev. M. L. Buckley, 84, of 454 Bellefontaine Ave., retired pastor and former Marion mayor was found lying unconscious in a field at the end of Windsor St. at 6:44 p.m. Wednesday suffering from exposure.

He was taken to Marion City Hospital in a Boyd ambulance. His condition was reported "fair" today by hospital attaches.

He had been ill and had wandered away from his home some time during the previous night. His daughter, Miss Dorothy Buckley, with whom he lives, said he was in bed when she retired the night before, but when she got up Wednesday morning, he was gone.

Found by Gill Ave. Resident

He was found about 12 hours later in the field by Clyde Ward of 738 Gill Ave. Ward was walking along the Pennsylvania railroad tracks when he saw him.

He was wearing only bedroom slippers, pajamas and robe when he left the house and when he was found he had lost one of his slippers, police reported.

Believed There Most of Day

Police said they could not tell how long he had lain there but believed he had been there most of the day. They conducted an intensive search through Marion's south end looking for him all day Wednesday.

In failing memory, he had wandered away from home in the past to be returned by friends or police searching for him.

The Rev. Mr. Buckley retired as a Christian Church minister in 1923. He was elected mayor of Marion and held office from 1924 to 1926. He spoke to Kiwanis Clubs, Masonic bodies, and for the Anti-Saloon League throughout the state in the years that followed. His daughter is a teacher at Silver Street School.

CHAMP STEER SELLS LOW

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—(AP)—Toby, the 1,200-pound Aberdeen Angus grand champion steer of the International Live Stock Exposition sold for the surprisingly low price of $6.75 a pound today. This was only slightly more than half as much as the $12-a-pound last year's champion, a Hereford, brought.

Mysterious Battle Lull Is Explained

8th Army Head Says Directive to Troops Was Misinterpreted

SEOUL, Korea, Nov. 29 — (AP) —Allied artillery opened up on the western front today after officers reported receiving new orders to "shoot to kill."

The front line report came shortly after Gen. James A. Van Fleet announced his Eighth Army command had issued "certain military instructions" which some troops may have interpreted as a cease-fire order.

He said any such "misinterpretation" would be corrected.

An official Eighth Army spokesman said the original — and still secret—directive remained "completely unchanged." Any changes showing up on the front, he said, were the result of clarifications ordered by Gen. Van Fleet.

The spokesman's comment apparently applied to the "shoot to kill" orders reported received by artillery officers of the Third Division. Artillerymen said apparently their new instructions did not apply to the infantry.

The original report of an Eighth Army directive not to fire on the Reds unless necessary came Wednesday from a Third Division officer.

Withholds Details

First high official acknowledgement that some sort of directive had been issued came Thursday from Van Fleet, U.N. ground commander in Korea. He said it was not a cease-fire order— but did not disclose its nature because security was involved.

Col. Kenneth Booth, Eighth Army public information officer, said Thursday night this "basic directive has not been changed.

"Anything appearing to be a change at the front is solely the result of the clarification ordered by Gen. Van Fleet."

Van Fleet acknowledged his headquarters had issued "certain military instructions" which apparently had been misinterpreted by some troops as meaning they should stop shooting.

Like the White House and Tokyo headquarters of the United Nations command, Van Fleet emphasized:

"There is no cease-fire order in Korea."

He promised action to clarify the directive for those "who misinterpreted" it.

Shortly thereafter front line dispatches from the western front reported the Allies were again firing artillery and mortars at a nearly normal rate after a day of abnormal quiet.

Reds Play Volley Ball

Front line troops were reported confused by the big guns opening up on the front where the day before they had watched Chinese Reds play volley ball.

A Third Division briefing officer said reconnaissance patrols went on scouting missions as usual, but with the understanding they would not look for trouble.

The change came on the same front where reports of a new "don't shoot first" policy originated.

Van Fleet's statement did not say what directives the original Eighth Army order contained. Nor did he say that troops would be ordered to resume full scale fighting along the quiet 145-mile front.

In the uninterrupted air war, Communists sent a record 320 MIG jets streaking across the Yalu River from their Manchurian bases Thursday. The U. S. Fifth Air Force said three American Sabre jets and one Red MIG-15 were damaged. It happened in the day's biggest scrap when 22 Sabres took on 175 Red jets.

In Rome, high American officials said presumably neither the United Nations nor Red forces would attempt to change the present front lines before Dec. 27. If an armistice is reached by that time, the present front will become the cease-fire line.

However, these American officials said local Communist attacks in the East Korean hills Wednesday might have raised a question as to just what the Reds would do during this 30-day period.

Official quarters, ranging up to the White House, denied issuing any cease-fire order.

A cease-fire must wait until an

Lean Season

By Inez Robb

HORSE racing is not the only hazardous occupation that stems from differences of opinion. Play producing is another direct offspring of such differences and is, if possible, more fraught with instability than horse racing.

The oldest playgoer on Broadway can scarcely remember a season more perilous to play producers than the current one. The mortality among new productions has been and continues about on a par with the St Valentine's Day Massacre.

Inez Robb

With the season almost three months old, it has failed to produce one solid hit comparable to "Death Of A Salesman" or "Darkness At Noon". Nor has it come up with a smash hit comedy in a class with "Voice Of The Turtle" or "You Can't Take It With You."

WITH THE EXCEPTION of a couple of medium-to-good musicals, "Paint Your Wagon" and "Top Banana" and a couple of so-so comedies, "The Fourposter" and "Gigi", which opened this season, all the SRO Broadway hits are vintage stuff, stemming from past seasons.

They include such old faithfuls as "South Pacific" and "Call Me Madam" and last season's "The King And I", "Two On The Aisle", "Affairs Of State" and "The Moon Is Blue."

They are all going strong, and anyone lucky enough to find two seats to "The King And I" on his Christmas tree will know there's a Santa Claus.

BUT IF THE turkeys continue to arrive on Broadway between now and Christmas in the same quantity as in the immediate past, that street will settle for a couple of good meat balls for its Yuletide feast.

Plays have opened and closed in the twinkling of an eye since the current season began to run its ragged course last Labor Day.

The slaughter was especially high over the past weekend, and knocked off even "Barefoot In Athens" by Maxwell Anderson. Such is Mr. Anderson's reputation that the critics practically apologized to the dramatist for not cottoning to his play when it opened almost three weeks ago.

The weekend closings also included "To Dorothy, Anson", a sad-sack comedy offered by Herman Shumlin, one of Broadway's really distinguished practitioners. Such bad judgment on the part of an old hand like Mr. Shumlin can only cause wonder among the innocent bystanders and scare the socks off incipient angels.

THE HAMMERSTEIN revival of 'Music In The Air", which closed Saturday night, is another case in point. When the Hammersteins, Shumlins and Andersons turn out to be such bad guessers, it's enough to make the would-be angel take his dough and invest in something safe like the Brooklyn Bridge.

To tell the truth, I once touted a would-be angel off a play, if honest confession can show what differences of opinion do to Broadway. A gent name of Howard Cullman, now the super Broadway angel of all time, was just getting into the racket in 1938 when he asked me to read a play and tell him what I thought of it.

Well, what I thought of it was nothing I told Mr. C. the play was stale, the characters hackneyed and every situation trite.

So Mr. C. sent Clifford Odets' "Golden Boy" back to the agent with the result that another angel made millions or maybe billions from it. That was the end of a beautiful friendship.

Futhermore, the above experience has made me quite tolerant. Whenever I see a Broadway turkey now on which a lot of folks have lavished time, talent, money, hope and prayer, I just remember that we can't all be geniuses all the time.

OHIO WOMAN SENTENCED FOR EMBEZZLING. Led under guard from a federal courtroom in Dayton, O., is Mrs. Bernice Emerick, 49-year-old grandmother sentenced to nine years in prison on 13 counts of embezzlement. She was charged with embezzling $12,700 from the Wright Field Credit Union when she was secretary treasurer but an audit of her books showed a shortage of $229,000.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

PHILADELPHIA

THOSE who have sloshed barefooted out of Joe's place, onto the water-logged, sewerless streets off Truman Ave., in Key West, know the isle as a carefree land of lime pie and conch meat. And they know how easily the President can dream of a quiet Christmas there, in his winter White House at the bottom end of Route 1. But here, 1,600 miles further north, there are undeniable signs of restlessness that may make this one of the most yowling Yules in years.

Victor Riesel

No observer who knows the symptoms of rank-and-file rebellions could have ignored the shocking news the other day of a strike threat in a blood plasma plant—which would have cut life-giving blood extract off from our soldiers in Korea at a moment when the casualties tipped the 100,000 mark. That story was worth a trip so, in I went to the plant town to find out, for myself, why an otherwise reasonable CIO union should do this to its own flesh and blood.

I found the litters. I discovered that the national leaders of this CIO Chemical Workers Union learned of the strike threat as we all did, by wire news service stories out of a small Pennsylvania town.

IN FACT, the union's national chief, Marty Wagner, was on his way from Washington to Pittsburgh to discuss with Phil Murray the internal feuds in CIO. Suddenly, Wagner had a national headache—and so did the entire labor movement. The public knew only that a small affiliate of the union in West Point, Pa., was about to slash blood supplies in a threatened strike over a union shop. What the public didn't know what that the more basic quarrel with the huge $75,000,000 drug firm of Sharpe and Dohme (producers of the ethical drugs sold directly to doctors) was over the little union's demand for a contract which would permit them to reopen negotiations and ask for wage increases in six months.

Somewhere, in all the negotiations, the fellows down below forgot the blood processing department of the big firm—and forgot that the local outfit needed strike authorization from its national office before it could hit the bricks. It didn't have that permission from Wagner in Washington. But it would have struck nevertheless. The jitters came from fear that higher living costs might wipe out the wage increases the company was willing to grant in this contract.

FORTUNATELY for the troops, the public's temper and the labor movement itself, national indignation and the union's national officers swiftly forced a settlement. There were no pickets around the blood processing plant.

That was just one incident picked up by the spotlight. It ended and there were no incidents such as the moment back in the last war when, after a coal strike, two GIs spotted John Lewis in a hotel lobby in Washington, and one of them let go a long left which just grazed the protruding eyebrows. That coal strike ended just before it did any real damage to war movements, for it was fully controlled by John L. But today, even he can not handle the walkout jitters. Time and again, in the past few months, the coal operators, pressured by the need to rush the fuel to Europe, have come into their business headquarters to learn of wildcat walkouts.

Time and again they called in "old John". He has not denied the seriousness of the spotty rebellions. Nor is there any evidence anywhere that his men inspire the stoppages. "Old Thunder" has tried to make good his promises in these confabs—but not even word from his Olympia can keep the jittery miners in their pits.

OUT IN DETROIT the other week it seemed that Walter Reuther would finally be able to avert disruption of the big auto town's plants by the pie-in-the-sky artists who had short order panaceas for all irritations. But the joblessness is spreading and has now seeped up into Flint, and other smaller cities. "Bread and Butter" unemployment committees are springing up—and they are non-political expressions of the jitters.

Result is that the hacks who exploit every fear have just been able to convince over 30,000 Ford employes to sign cards demanding that Reuther, in the name of the International Automobile Workers Union, simply junk the five-year contract and demand a 30-hour week for 40 hours pay. Reasoning behind this rainbow-reaching is simple — there'll be more jobs and everybody'll have an extra 10 hours to pick up an extra couple of take-home dollars.

Atop of all this comes news that in Eastern cities the purchasing power of the dollar is at 54.8 cents at the latest count—an all-time low (in terms of 1935-1939 prices.) And down below, in the factories, the impact is toughest.

The men hear their national labor leaders blast the government and the companies. They see Washington executives quitting control posts. And there seems to be only confusion and fright of the future. So they're blowing steam. Just watch.

COMMISSIONERS VIEW DITCH

Marion County commissioners today viewed the Vernon Heights ditch as a result of a petition filed by Carl S. Kay and others Nov 1. The petition requested an extension of the present tile ditch to be constructed and maintained by the county and also for improvements on the existing portion of the ditch. The first public hearing on the petition will be held Dec. 6 at the commissioners' office.

Hearing On McCarthy Postponed

Investigation Of Ouster Demand Held Over to January

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) said today a Senate rules subcommittee is postponing until January any action on demands by Senator Benton (D-Conn) that Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) be ousted from Congress.

Gillette's announcement prompted an assertion by McCarthy that "the Democratic national committee and not the taxpayers should be paying the salaries of the five investigators the Gillette subcommittee has looking into my affairs."

McCarthy said Benton's charges against him "are just an effort to concoct a campaign issue through a completely dishonest investigation."

Informed of McCarthy's statement, Gillette told a reporter:

"Investigating matters of this kind always is unpleasant and onerous. We have to expect criticism from both sides, but we are going to carry out the job assigned to us.

"We are going to carry it out without bias or prejudice to anyone."

Gillette announced early this month that the subcommittee would decide this week what further action, if any, to take on a resolution by Benton calling for a full scale Senate inquiry to determine whether there are grounds to expel McCarthy from the Senate. Expulsion would require a two-thirds majority of senators voting. In testimony on his resolution, Benton said McCarthy should be expelled.

Gillette told reporters today it had been necessary to postpone action on the Benton resolution because of the press of other business.

tin, where the killer will await action of the state Supreme Court on his appeal for a review, automatic under California law.

If no reversible error is found by the high court, the federal authorities then may surrender technical custody, so that Cook may pay the supreme penalty. The attorney general will await receipt of formal papers before transferring Cook to California's jurisdiction.

Parole Possible

Under public document 98, passed by congress and signed by the President last spmmer, Cook would have been eligible for parole from Alcatraz prison after serving only 15 years of his 300-year sentence.

Superior Judge Mouser said he found no extenuating circumstances in his study of trial testimony or of the transcript of grand jury testimony that was made avilable to him by stipulation. He branded the killing of Dewey as premeditated and diliberate and said it was coupled with the perpetration of a felony, the robbery of Dewey.

Cook twice uttered feeble, almost inaudible "no's" when the court asked him if he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced. He showed no visible emotion as the court ordered the death penalty, but as soon as it was delivered two of the 10 husky guards inside the court railing pounced upon him and clamped on handcuffs.

REPORT NEW VIOLENCE

ISMAILIA, Egypt, Nov. 29—(AP)—New violence was reported here today in the wake of fighting which flared last night less than six hours after Egyptian authorities agreed to tighten their policing of the strife-torn Suez Canal Zone.

Truce

armistice agreement is signed by truce negotiators meeting at Panmunjom, Thursday the Red delegation proposed immediate discussion of gradual withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea, instead of the Allied guaranteed against reinforcements during a truce.

A spokesman for Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo said "no order has been given to halt ground fighting in Korea . . . by the Eighth Army or anybody else."

President Truman's spokesman in Key West, Fla., denied an AP report that such orders had come possibly from the White House.

AP correspondent Milo Farneti on the western front said he saw an Eighth Army order not to fire unless fired upon.

Van Fleet's statement was the first acknowledgement that there had been any order that could be so interpreted, even through "distortion of meaning," as the general labeled it

Fires blazed along the Communist side of the line, breaking the 17 months blackout.

Only the occasional rumble of artillery disturbed the UN-war-like quiet No offensive action by any United Nations unit was reported either Wednesday or Thursday.

Isolated Communist attacks were reported from the eastern front, where Red communications are exceptionally poor. Firing was reported from Heartbreak Ridge in the east Thursday. Some artillery rumbled in the west.

"Laying Low"

Some divisions reported no contact with the Communists all day.

"We are laying low," one divisional officer laughed, "just like the man says."

The only sizable fighting along the peaceful front broke out Wednesday afternoon northwest of the punchbowl on the eastern front. It was over by midnight (10 a.m. Wednesday EST). In this action North Koreans launched two attacks and then retired.

Van Fleet's statement was the first official acknowledgement of the possible orgin of the cease-fire attitude at the front. He said:

"An incomplete digest of a military directive has led to unfounded speculation regarding a cease-fire in Korea.

" . . . certain military instructions were disseminated from this headquarters to corps and division levels War correspondents' reports indicate that when these instructions were passed down to some lower command elements there was distortion of meaning in the text of these instructions.

"Action is being taken to clarify these instructions for those officers and enlisted men who misinterpreted the directive.

"I am not at liberty to disclose the contents of the instructions which are related to future operations of the Eighth Army.

"I can definitely say, however, there is no mention made in the text of ordering a cease-fire in Korea."

Orders Paraphrased

The orders had been paraphrased as they reached front-line troops.

One company commander, whose words were recorded by NBC correspondent John Rich, spoke of "This first word of the cease-fire" and told his officers:

"We will fire only in self defense and in defense of the main line of resistance."

Similar reports came from many points on the front. Communists showed a similar attitude along most of the 145-mile provisional cease-fire line created this week by truce negotiators. The line was fixed with the understanding that fighting would continue and it would become effective only if a full armistice is signed by Dec. 27.

Some divisional officers talked easily and frankly about word to hold their fire unless fired upon Others, in a different corps, said they knew nothing about such instructions.

This indicated different interpretation of the orders by different commanders, possible at corps level.

ment a copy of a speech he made in 1950 saying he did not know if Communists guided the PAC now, and adding: "future congressional investigations will no doubt determine that question."

Clayman said heatedly the supplemental statement was "a foul canard." He declared "to my knowledge there is not a Communist in the CIO in Ohio" and said not one of the persons mentioned by Taft as a Communist took any part in the 1950 Ohio campaign.

39-Inch Auto Horns Not "Adequate"

ALBANY, N. Y. —(UP)—William R. Costantino, 18, learned to his sorrow that the two 39-inch horns on his automobile were not "adequate."

Arrested when the horns "caused a terrific blast" that frightened pedestrians, Constantino was given a suspended sentence in police court for not having an "adequate horn or suitable signal device on his automobile."

The horns cost him $204, the youth wailed when the court ordered him to produce "satisfactory evidence" they had been removed from his car.

Florida Split On Turnpike Proposal

$100 Million Project Feared Threat To Local Tourist Trade

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — (UP)— The entire east coast of Florida is divided over a proposal to build a $100,000,000 toll turnpike to speed-up tourist travel between Jacksonville and Miami.

The project, similar to the famed Pennsylvania turnpike, would bypass traffic jammed east coast municipalities and cut three hours off the driving time between the two metropolitan areas.

The proposal was initiated by highway officials perturbed over the present condition of U.S. Highway 1, now the main artery of east coast tourist traffic.

Communities straddling U.S. 1 fear that a turnpike, even carrying a $3 per vehicle tariff, would cut heavily into their tourist economy by veering traffic around them.

However, highway officials claim much of the traffic, particularly of visitors wanting to see Florida at a leisurely pace, would still stick to U.S. 1, leaving the turnpike to tourists in a hurry to get some place.

So far, the project is still in the investigatory stage. The road department is not committed to spend a penny on a single foot.

However, both Gov. Fuller Warren and the highway chairman, Alfred A. McKethan, admit they view the turnpike proposal "favorably." They toured the Pennsylvania turnpike on a recent trip and returned "impressed" with the whole idea.

At least three possible routes are being considered in the preliminary study. One would follow the east coast from Jacksonville to Miami, another would run further inland, touching the Okeechobee area before swinging to Miami, and a leg might be cut in to serve the populous Tampa Bay area.

Highway officials describe U.S. 1 as "dangerous and maddening," and costs of acquiring rights of way to improve the road are prohibitive.

The turnpike would be financed with tolls over a long period.

Residents of Miami are all for the proposal but 16 other communities, including St. Augustine and Daytona Beach, have formed an organization to fight it.

Reads Wedding Ceremony For Friend of College Days

The Rev. M. Elizabeth King, a college friend of the bride and an ordained Methodist minister, officiated at the wedding Nov. 21 of Miss Bertha Lane McKibben of Bucyrus and Royal Oliver Mason of 667 Sugar St.

The Rev. Miss King performed the double ring ceremony at 2:30 p.m. at her home in Cardington. She and the bride were classmates at the Chicago Training School, where Miss McKibben majored in social service and Miss King studied the ministerial course. They were graduated in 1931.

The former Miss McKibben was graduated from Bucyrus High School and attended Mount Union College in Alliance before enrolling in the Chicago school. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. O. McKibben of Bucyrus.

Employed in Marion

Mr. Mason, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Mason of Cardington, is employed by the Pollak Steel Co. and Commercial Motor Freight Inc. He is a graduate of Cardington High School.

Present at the ceremony were the bridegroom's parents and the Rev. Miss King's mother and sister, Mrs. Charles N. King and Mrs. Carl V. Varner, both of Cardington. Mrs. Varner played the piano before the ceremony, and afterwards cake and ice cream were served by Mrs. King and Mrs. Varner.

The couple have returned from a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and are living in Bucyrus.

200 Marriages

The Rev. Miss King estimates that she has performed more than 200 marriages since she was ordained as a minister in 1935 at Lakeside. She received her license to preach in 1930 in Chicago.

A life-long resident of Morrow County, she served as a deputy for the county probate and juvenile courts for 14 years, until 1950. During that time she worked for the state welfare department.

She is Morrow County chairman of the Ohioana Library Association and for Ohio Poetry Day. # Taft Working Hard in South

GREENSBORO, N. C., Nov. 29 —(AP)—Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft packed five public appearances into his crowded Greensboro schedule today before returning to Chapel Hill where he will deliver the last of a series of lectures at the University of North Carolina tonight.

Pushing his southern campaign to capture the upcoming Republican presidential nomination, Taft addressed students at three colleges, attended luncheon with state Republican leaders, and appeared in a television forum.

On the final day of his three-day North Carolina tour, the Ohioan spoke at Guilford College, Greensboro College and the Woman's College of the University of North Carolina.

Taft joined with state GOP leaders in mapping campaign strategy at the luncheon meeting.

The Republican leader told Negro students at North Carolina College in Durham yesterday that the federal government should not require the South to do away with its segregated public school system. Taft said that other issues are more important than segregation in public schools.

criminal charges of fraud or bribery. Cases of 5 of those fired yesterday were turned over to the justice department for possible prosecution. Five other employes are still under suspension, while their records get further study.

Informed officials said investigations are under way in a number of new areas, and that the toll will mount.

Offices in 15 cities were involved in yesterday's housecleaning.

Dunlap told a reporter it will be "2 or 3 months" before "we can reach our goal—the cleanest and most efficient revenue system possible."

President Truman fired the highest official involved yesterday—James G. Smyth, a White House appointee who was collector in charge of the San Francisco office—for "failure to manage his office properly." Dunlap showed the door to the others.

Welcomes Inquiry

At San Francisco, Smyth said he would welcome an inquiry "to clear the names of these career" employes who had served under him. "As to any allegations from any sources that I am guilty of graft or corruption," he added, "I want to state that neither I nor the men in my bureau who were dismissed have ever taken a bribe or a cent of illegal money."

"Too little and too late," Senator Nixon (R-Calif) said of the mass firing. He termed it a gesture "intended to try to convince the public that the cleanup was initiated by the administration, when it has been forced upon them."

Wife Records Rules, Helps Blind Weaver

EASTPORT, Me. — (UP)—Andrew J. Frankovich, blinded in World War II, became a talented hand weaver after listening to instructions recorded by his wife.

His wife dictates a pattern on a record and the former semi-professional basketball player turns the record off after each step. After working out the pattern, he listens to the next step, and so on until he finishes.

Frankovich, 31-year-old Cleveland, O., native, has woven cloth for a suit for himself and also has woven fancy items.

Farmer Devises Way To Protect Birds

HOWARD, S. D. —(UP)—John Hoss has devised a method for protecting pheasants and other wild birds while harvesting his farm crops.

He has his black Labrador hunting dog flush the birds from in front of the mower.

He also places several pickup guards on the sickle bar. The guards jut out several inches ahead of the blade and arouse the birds.

FAREWELL GIFT. Her last few weeks on earth are made happier for Raphaela Fasano, 10, of Newark, N. J., by a religious medal sent her as a Christmas present by famed singer Mario Lanza. Because physicians fear she will not live to see Santa Claus this year, Raphaela was taken from a hospital to her Newark home for an early Christmas party.

Fur Trade In Missouri Booms

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo.—(UP)—A frontier industry still exists in Missouri and brings in nearly $1,000,000 a year, according to state conservation commission figures.

In the 1950-51 season, Missouri fur traders gained $943,200 from a harvest of 441,462 pelts. The take was not much over the 1949-50 crop of 410,408 furs but rising prices brought the trapping income up considerably, the commission said.

The lowly 'possum was taken in largest numbers in Missouri last year. A bag of 162,912 'possums brought trappers $57,019. The mink, raised commercially, brought the largest chunk of the fur trading income—$436,812, although only 19,946 furs were sold.

Other big money raisers for Missouri fur traders were the muskrat with 139,197 pelts being sold for $257,514, and the raccoon with 98,854 skins bringing $170,737.

ALIBI NO GOOD

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(UP)—Lennis Cox said in federal court that his children made paper dolls out of his probation papers when they were mailed to him. That's why he didn't report to a probation officer. Judge Robert L. Taylor revoked the probation and handed Cox an 18-months prison sentence.

Driving Conditions Can Be Too Good

CHICAGO —(UP)— "Perfect driving conditions" often are hazardous, according to Dr Ross McFarland, associate professor of industrial hygiene in the Harvard School of Public Health.

McFarland told the annual meeting of the National Association of Motor Bus Operators that an analysis of accidents involving $2,000,000 paid out in claims showed that "a majority of serious accidents studied occured on clear days, during daylight hours when traffic was light, and occurred on dry, level road surfaces that were in good repair."

"These facts," he said, "give evidence of human failure, since these driving conditions invite high speed and somewhat more relaxation than is reasonable.

"It was found that errors in steering the vehicle were frequently associated with too high a rate of speed for the conditions."

Announce Ohio Edison Change

FRANK W. FUNK

ANDREW CARNEGIE

Frank W. Funk, vice president of Ohio Edison Company and in charge of the utility's production and transmission department, will retire from active service on Dec. 1 in accordance with the company's pension plan, the main office at Akron reported today. He has 33 years of service.

He will be succeeded as manager of the production and transmission department by Andrew Carnegie of Akron, now general superintendent of power production.

Ohio Edison serves a large part of Ohio including the Marion division, which has its main office on S. Main St.

Other organizational changes include the promotion of C. S. Bowden of Akron, general superintendent of substations and transmission, to succeed Carnegie, and the appointment of S. C. Hoover, superintendent of electric distribution in the Warren division of the utility, to succeed Bowden.

Mr Funk has been with the Edison Company, its predecessor and affiliated companies since 1912, except for six years spent in private practice as a consulting engineer in Youngstown.

Carnegie will take over Mr. Funk's duties as manager of the production and transmission of all power over the Ohio Edison electrical system. Carnegie was born in Braddock, Pa., educated in Pennsylvania and graduated from Carnegie Institute of Technology in 1917 with a degree in mechanical engineering.

College Faces Budget Deficit

Wittenberg To Seek Special Gifts

SPRINGFIELD, O., Nov. 29—Increasing costs today leave Wittenberg College facing a budget deficit of $19,401 for 1951-52, the board of directors learned Wednesday at the final session of its semi-annual two-day meeting.

The directors adopted a budget of $827,183 for the fiscal year ending next June. Anticipated income is $807,724.

No further cuts in expenditures are possible without jeopardizing the college's work, Dr. C. Charles Goering, of Logansport, Ind., chairman of the budget committee, reported. Efforts will be made to overcome the deficit by seeking special gifts, he said.

CLASS ENTERTAINED

Farm Bureau Takes Stand On Key Issues

60 Resolutions Approved At State Convention

COLUMBUS, Nov 29—(AP)—The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation yesterday adopted a resolution opposing a convention to revise Ohio's constitution.

It was one of 60 resolutions adopted by delegates to the federation's 33rd annual convention in Columbus.

Ohioans will vote next year on whether a state constitutional convention should be called.

"It is our belief," the federation's resolution stated, "that any imperfections now existing in our constitution should be remedied by simpler and less expensive methods."

The delegates raised dues to the state organization from $2.50 to $4 yearly, effective Jan. 1, 1953. They recommended county dues be raised from $5 to $10.

Other Resolutions

In other major resolutions, the delegates:

Favored selective service, but opposed universal military training.

Favored keeping control of atomic energy in civilian hands.

Urged expansion of technical assistance programs of the United Nations charter.

Pledged cooperation in efforts to get more money to operate county health departments.

Urged improved rural roads and better telephone service.

Urged higher teachers' salaries and state aid so rural schools could employ teachers whose training and experience would compare with city teachers.

Urged adoption of a long-range highway improvement program.

Opposed increases in real estate taxes, but favored hiking cigaret and liquor taxes.

Plan As Inflation

Proposed a four-point plan to curb inflation—increase all forms of production, cut non-essential expenditures, direct government borrowing away from banks and restrict expansion of credit.

Asked compulsory vaccination of all dogs to control rabies.

Urged that when federal money is appropriated for rural road improvement, counties should have the right to determine standards and specifications.

SHERIFF QUITS

CHARDON, O., Nov. 29—(AP)—Geauga County commissioners were looking for a new sheriff today. The old one quit after he was fined on charges of pampering a gambler lodged in his jail. The sheriff, 62-year-old Stuart M. Harland, handed the commissioners his resignation yesterday. It is effective at midnight tomorrow.

Library's Book Circulation Listed

The Carnegie Public Library reports a total circulation of 7,953 books during October. Of these, 6,283 were borrowed from the main library and 1,670 from the county branches.

The library added a total of 236 books, of which 149 were for adults and 87 for juvenile reading.

SEAT JURY

IRONTON, O., Nov 29—(AP)—Eleven jurors were tentatively seated yesterday in the first-degree murder trial of William F. Borune, 32. He is accused of the ambush slaying of Owen Edward Sudderth, 51, last Sept. 22.

I Did It—Lost 66 Lbs. My Secret Was Rennel

Youngstown Lady Feels Ten Years Younger

"I certainly could recommend Rennel Concentrate to anyone wanting to lose weight and not suffer hunger," writes Mrs. Mary Stephens, 440 Kenmore Ave., Youngstown, Ohio. "Before taking Rennel I had gained weight steadily for a number of years and began having leg trouble so that I was unable to exercise or do my own work as usual. It was thought that I might possibly have to have an operation. Since taking Rennel, however, I have lost 66 lbs. and I feel better than I have for 10 or 12 years. I'm now able to do all my work again, even washing walls and ceilings. It's easy to see why I praise Rennel so highly."

Imagine eat plenty and lose weight with this simple yet effective amazing home recipe. After purchasing a bottle of Rennel from your druggist pour the contents into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. No diets to complicate your meal planning. No expensive vitamins to fortify your system from weakness while going without food for you can eat normally. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender, more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. Insist on genuine Rennel.

Army Silent On Resignation Of Wac Captain

CAMP BRECKINRIDGE, Ky., Nov. 29—(AP)—Capt Johnita Heslinga, commanding officer of the Wac detachment here, resigned "for the good of the service" and nothing else.

That statement was issued yesterday by Col. Barney Daughtry, chief of staff at Camp Breckinridge. He denied there was any connection between the resignation and the recent conviction of six Wac sergeants for slapping another Wac.

Miss Heslinga returned to her home at New Sharon, Ia. She declined to comment on her resignation.

He was asked if she was requested to resign. "I will say only that Capt. Heslinga resigned her commission for the good of the service," answered Colonel Daughtry, who refused to explain further.

Six Wacs were courtmartialed and convicted Nov. 8 of beating Pfc. Carol Ann Kierce, 20, of Mount Vernon, O. They were given prison terms ranging from one to 2½ years on an assault and battery conviction. All are being held here pending a review of the case by the Camp Breckinridge commanding general.

The Wacs allegedly beat Private Kierce on Oct. 4 after she testified at a courtmartial involving Cpl. Frances Menusan, a friend of the convicted women and the daughter of Dr. Henri Menusan, research entomologis

Miss Menusan, 25, was given a general discharge.

Opera Interrupted As Petrillo Orders Orchestra Walkout

CHICAGO, Nov. 29—(AP)—The orchestra for the opera "Carmen" walked out of the pit last night at the bid of James Petrillo, musician's union boss, who decided the orchestra's dignity had been bruised. The performance was delayed 15 minutes.

Petrillo said Alfred Bruening, New York violinist, and concertmeister of the orchestra, had complained that after the New York City Opera Company's performance of "Madame Butterfly" last Saturday, he was hit by a baton thrown by Laszlo Halasz, the conductor and music director.

Halasz allegedly acted in a moment of pique expressing his displeasure with the orchestra's performance, Petrillo said.

Goodwin presented a Thanksgiving reading. A gift exchange was planned for the next meeting, Dec. 20, with a dinner at Ringer's Inn.

Patrolman Recalled To Navy Duty

Clifford W. Lester of 201 Latourette St., a Marion city patrolman, has been recalled to active duty in the U. S. Navy.

A veteran of four and one-half years of naval duty during world War II, Patrolman Lester holds the rate of gunners mate second class. He has been ordered to report to the Philadelphia Navy Yard on Dec. 3.

He joined the police force in August, 1949. He will retain his seniority during his leave of absence which will be effective Dec. 1, and will be able to rejoin the force upon his return from service.

He enlisted in the Navy in Marion in 1943 and served until 1947. He worked for the Marion Power Shovel Co. before joining the police force.

His wife is the former Lilly Belle House of Marion. The couple have a four-year-old son.

The vacancy made by Lester's recall to service is not to be filled since the police force now has one too many men.

Stauffer, treasurer, announced that the band's old uniforms had been sold to Kingston High School in Kingston, Mich., for $300. The group will not meet in December because of the holidays.

Claire Gearhiser Named Head of Waldo Group

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

There was something in Bess Conway's voice that sent down my spine an old familiar sensation of sliding icicles. I knew that she was not given to nervous tremors, yet her voice certainly held fear in it. I put a quick query to her.

"What do you mean, evil?" I asked. "Are you afraid of this man?"

"Yes, I am," she said. "Even when I was most impressed by him, I knew that he was relentless and implacable if anyone deceived him. And I certainly did that. If he has found out that I did not own the name I gave him, and that I was a detective on his trail instead of a writer wishing to laud him—I can imagine his rage and his determination to be revenged upon me."

"I am all at sea," I said. "The scheme doesn't sound like my father. When the article you said you were going to write didn't appear—"

"But it did appear," she said unbelievably. "You ought to know your father better than that. It wasn't a big syndicate, but it wasn't too small a one, and the name I had given this man was signed to it. There was a picture of him—but—none of me. Then I disappeared, and thought—and hoped that I never would see him again. And now, I am afraid that he has found out everything."

I never had dreamed that Boss Conway could be capable of fear, but she was trembling now, as if she were afflicted with ague. With a sudden urgency about me, I rose and put a consoling hand upon her shoulder.

"This is too big for either you or me," I told her. "There is only one thing to be done. I must send for my father immediately."

"Oh, no, no!" she protested, thrusting her hand, palm outward, to me. "I can't let him know how foolish and hysterical I am. He never would have any faith in me again."

"Now you're talking nonsense," I told her briskly. "In the first place, will you kindly tell me how my father is going to know that you are petrified with fright—I can see you are—unless you tell him yourself?"

That "struck her amidships," and acted as potently as a draught of powerfully exhilarating medicine might have done. She stared at me for an instant, and I felt that I actually could see her pulling her frayed nerves into place and patching them up. Then she gave her shoulders a little shake and faced me, her poised self again.

"Will you tell me," she asked, "just what you plan to tell him?"

"You mean what you plan to tell him," I said inexorably.

"But you must tell me what I ought to say to him," she said, "if I am not to reveal the emotional bender in which I indulged two years ago."

"Did you ever tell him about the advances the men on your assignments made to you?" I asked.

"Never," she said. "He never asked me about that part of it. All he wanted was results and he never asked for any details."

"Then," I said, "everything is easy. When he comes here—oh! yes, I am sending for him directly—tell him that you were upset today by seeing this man, and that you feel you ought to tell him of a happening of that investigation. Then tell of the man's proposal to marry him, of your refusal, of his saying that you did not know your own mind, that he would wait two years and then track you down. Also tell him of the doubt that always has lingered in your mind about him. But about your own feelings, say nothing."

I stopped, then held her eyes with mine.

"There's something I must tell you," I said. "You must not go back to that apartment, ever."

Caudle said he had known Cohen for 25 years, and that their families had exchanged Christmas gifts for years. In 1948, Cohen said, he gave Caudle a television set costing around $200. He said Caudle gave him a wristwatch band, a hat and other presents.

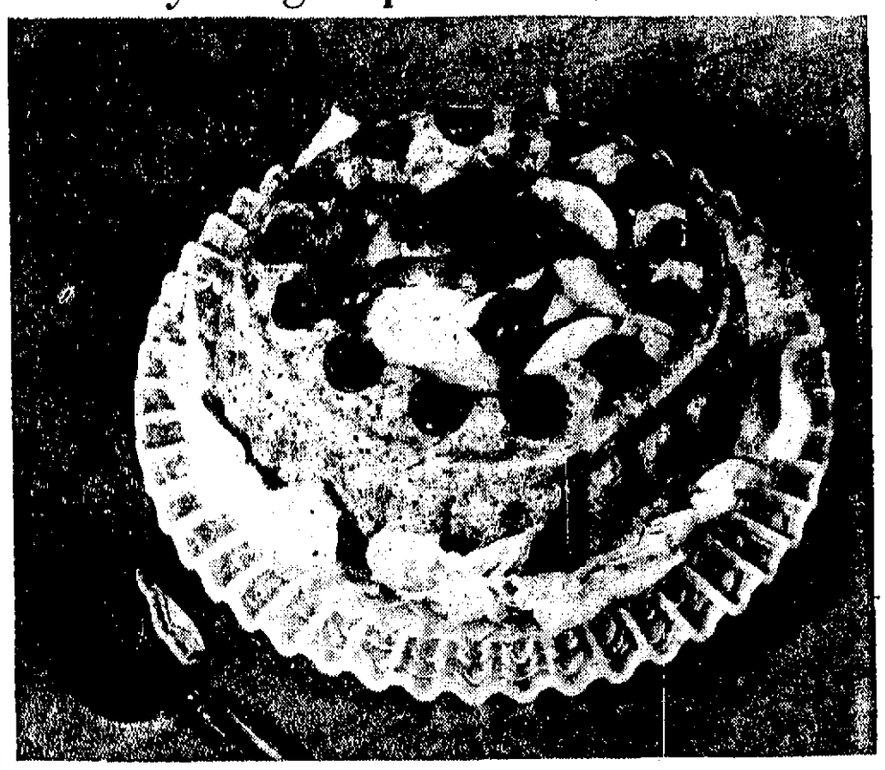
Cranberry Ring Tops Off Festive Occasions



THOSE COLORFUL little berries so much a part of the season can bring new color and zestful flavor to your holiday meals, and this sparkling cranberry ring is a salad treasure for the meal of the year. Little circles of jellied cranberry sauce top the salad ring to make a jeweled setting for the fruit salad filling. It's a colorful ring mold that's meant especially for those festive occasions. It's so simple to make you'll find it a gem of a recipe.

CRANBERRY FLUFF SALAD RING

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 pound can jellied cranberry sauce, sieved
2 T orange juice
2 T evaporated milk
2 3-oz. pkgs. cream cheese
2/3 cup evaporated milk, chilled icy cold
1 T lemon juice

Place gelatin in custard cup. Add cold water. Let stand 2 minutes. Place custard cup in pan of boiling water until gelatin dissolves. Add orange juice to the sieved cranberry sauce. Press cheese through a sieve, beat in the 2 tablespoons milk, then stir in gelatin. Gradually add the juice to chilled milk and beat in cold bowl with cold beater until milk is very stiff. Fold carefully but quickly into the berry mixture and pour into 1½-quart ring or other mold that has been rinsed with cold water. Chill at least 3 hours before serving. Unmold and fill center with a colorful combination of well-chilled fresh seasonal and canned fruits. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Reed said the white feathers have a small black line through them and when the sun shines on them they have a silver appearance. He said the bird was slightly smaller than a regular pheasant.

East-West Grid Stars Still Amateurs

Players Receive No Bonus For Annual Charity Tilt

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—,(AP)—No matter what you hear about college football players, there's one gentleman around town this week who'll swear they are a bunch of amateurs . . . He is silver-haired Bill Coffman, director of the Shrine East-West game in San Francisco . . . Bill will tell you proudly that since the game first was played in 1925 for the crippled children in the shrine hospitals no player ever has received a bonus of any kind . . . "Only a couple ever have asked for one," Coffman adds, "That was about 15 years ago, and when the situation was explained to them, they conceded and joined the squad." . . . They have their expenses paid, of course, including a few bucks for spending money as permitted by AAU regulations for amateurs. Each one gets a watch and a jacket and a trip to the Rose Bowl game . . . But their biggest reward comes when the players visit the hospital, where each one meets the kid who has been chosen as his "mascot." . . . "It isn't the glamor or the publicity of playing in a big game that attracts them," says Bill. "And time after time boys have told me this is the one game they want to play in; if they're not selected, they don't want to play in any post-season game."

THE FEE IS FOR FREE. Coffman has had a few headaches with this business, but he's managed to avoid serious trouble . . . For instance, there was one occasion when a publicized All-America star appeared briefly on a radio program a few days before the game and was handed $500 for his trouble . . . Somebody queried the AAU about that and was told that the boy had made himself a pro and that any others who appeared in the game with him would become ineligible for amateur competition. The "out" that they could get permission to play just by asking was learned too late, but the newspapers raised such a fuss about that ruling that all were forgiven . . . Then there was a time when a star innocently took money to play in an exhibition against a pickup squad of pros . . . When Bill got on the phone and told the kid he'd have to return the money, he heard the plaintiff reply: "Do you know how much $500 means to a college boy?" . . . But the kid gave it back; The Shrine game meant more than the $500 . . . The supposedly-mercenary coaches have the same attitude. They don't get a cent more than the players, but the biggest "name" guys in the profession almost knock one another down for the privilege of working . . .

* * *

HOW IT STARTED—The East-West game was just somebody's bright idea when Coffman moved into the picture in 1925 . . . Bill found a nucleus of a West squad in California's "Wonder Team" and the San Francisco Olympic Club but he couldn't even get a reply from Bill Ingram, then Indiana coach, who had been given the job of selecting an Eastern team . . . Finally, when the program was almost ready to go to press, when the "nut" had reached $30,000 and there was no advance sale, Coffman picked up a paper and read: "Bill Ingram and the following players left today to play a charity game in San Francisco." . . . There was just one more headache: "When they arrived, there were just 18 men, including Ingram," says Bill. "We had a great game, and in the second half when things got rough, Ingram put on cleats and went out to play in the game." . . .

Miami Retires Pont's Jersey

OXFORD, O., Nov. 29—(AP)—Football numeral "42," worn the last 3 seasons by "the greatest player Miami has ever had," has been retired.

Coach Ara Parseghian announced that Miami was according the honor for the first time in its history to Johnny Pont of Canton, O. Pont, a left halfback, also was honored last night at the school's yearly athletic banquet as the most valuable player and most efficient offensive back.

The senior averaged 9.5 yards for Miami every time he handled the ball during his football career here.

Also honored with trophies were: Center Jack McVay, Massillon, O., most efficient offensive lineman; Don Green of Akron, O., 1951 captain and tackle, most efficient defensive lineman; and Joe Codlano, linebacker from Orrville, O., most efficient defensive back.

WEEK'S DEFENSIVE STAR. Herb Zimmerman (above) Texas Christian guard, is the Associated Press lineman of the week. Zimmerman, a six-foot, 205-pounder was selected for his play against Rice. TCU topped Rice 22 to 6.

Enter Westerville's Protest Tourney

Special to The Star

MT GILEAD, Nov. 28—Plans for the Central District Protest Tournament were drawn up at a meeting recently at Westerville. Twelve teams will enter the tourney to be played at Westerville on Friday nights, Feb. 15 and 22.

Four teams from the twelve will go to the district tournament also to be held at Westerville.

Teams to be entered are: Mt. Gilead, Marysville, London, Worthington, Columbus University, Granville, Columbus St. Mary, Marion St. Mary, Lancaster St. Mary, Newark St. Francis, Columbus Holy Family, and Mt. Vernon St. Vincent.

Worthington dropped from its Class A status of last year to Class B status this year. Both Worthington and Granville have become exempted village schools as a result of the 1950 census and will not participate in their county tournaments.

Four teams will be seeded with drawings scheduled for Feb. 11. Four games will be played on both nights with games scheduled at 6, 7.15, 8:30 and 9:45 p.m.

Teams drawing positions one and two and 11 and 12 will play the last night only with the two winners entering the district. Teams drawing the other eight positions will play the first night and the four winners will play again on the second Friday night to determine the other teams to enter the district. No championship or runner-up positions will be decided.

Officials for the first night are Burgett, Maggied and Carey and for the final night are Milcusnich and Burgett with one yet to be named.

Bratton Earns Draw With Champ Gavilan

CHICAGO, Nov. 29— (AP) — Johnny Bratton, Chicago's unpredictable welterweight, charmed a Chicago Stadium crowd last night with a piledriving assault that earned him a draw with Champion Kid Gavilan.

The end of the non-title 10-round bout, which was televised across the nation, found the 7,397 spectators on their feet, cheering the unpredictable "Brat" lustily.

Supporters worried lest Bratton prove ring-shy after suffering jaw bone breaks in three losing battles—to Gavilan last May, to Ike Williams in 1950 and to Beau Jack in 1949. Furthermore, he was known to have a habit of going on the defensive when the going was toughest.

But tactically Bratton was a changed man last night. At no time did he give evidence that he was worried about another bust in the jaw. On the contrary, he weathered Gavilan's ferocious flurries and came out of them swinging—and connecting.

Ringside observers were agreed he fought the most impressive battle of his major competition.

Visitors Boast 5 Letter Winners

Harding High School will be meeting an experienced cage crew Friday night when they lift the lid on the 1951-52 cage season at the Coliseum.

Bexley's starting lineup will include five lettermen from the team which whipped the Prexies in last year's opener. Coach Carlton Smith of the Bexley squad describes his team as having "fair height and speed," In early-season practice sessions they have appeared as an average team, he added.

Tallest man on the Bexley crew will be Center Bob Stone who reaches 6-3. Chick Wahoff, forward, stands an even six feet while Sanford Solomon, the other forward is just under the six foot mark. Bill Legg, 5-7 senior, fills one guard position while the other is filled by Jack Bernlohr, member of Columbus' basketball family. Jack's father, Bill, has gained a reputation as a leading cage coach after establishing himself as one of the great prep cage stars in Columbus.

Ranked With Father

Basketball observers in the Capital City see Jack as taking his place along side his father and relatives after graduation.

Also expected to see a lot of action Friday night is 6-2 Don Leeman and 6-1 Jim Mueller These lads should give the Bexley squad control of the boards even when the second string is in. Rounding out the second crew will be Brook Gibson, 5-7 guard, Tom Davis, 5-7 forward, and Howard Hurst, who also stands 5-7.

Meanwhile Coach Ken Somerlot and his staff are busy ironing out wrinkles in the Harding hardwood outlook. By game time tomorrow, the starting lineup probably will include five seniors.

Starters

Jim Russell and Paul Geissler will be at the forwards, Paul Colby and Dick Underwood will fill the guard posts and Robbie Miller will operate in the pivot. At least seven other varsity members will be available for duty. They will include Gene Gamble, Roger Fick, Marvin McFann, Ted Price, Bill Smiley, Dick Tway and Ed Porter.

John Luginbuhl's reserves will open the action when they meet the Bexley Juniors at 7. The varsity contest will follow the reserve action.

Natural Causes or Suicide?

Villanova Football Player Found Dead in Dormitory

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 29 — (AP)—Nick Liotta, 22-year-old Villanova College football co-captain, was found dead in a dormitory basement yesterday. Police said death was by hanging. The coroner's office ascribed it to natural causes.

Radnor Township police said they found Liotta's body under a strip of piping, a coil of telephone wire twisted around his neck. The wire, police said in their official report, had been looped over a pipe.

Joseph Tercha, Delaware County coroner, said Dr. John Turner of Bryn Mawr informed him that Liotta died of natural causes, apparently of a heart attack. He added that no autopsy is planned.

The college, operated by the Roman Catholic order of St. Augustine, announced only that Liotta was dead and that the cause of death was unknown. Beyond that most officials held to steadfast silence. Teammates of the popular Liotta, who was a candidate for All-American honors as a guard, were reported to be under strict orders from college authorities to say nothing. Reporters seeking to talk to the players were turned away from the dormitories.

Served In Army

Liotta — christened Dominic—was born in Everett, Mass. After his graduation from high school there he joined the Army, serving 2 years, most of it in Japan where he played on the All-Star service eleven.

Already he had been chosen by the Football Writers Association of America as a member of its All-American team selected for Look Magazine. He also had been named to the Associated Press All-Pennsylvania football squad.

One college official said Liotta had been despondent since Villanova lost 20-13 to Boston College before his family and home town fans at Boston 2 weeks ago. The official indicated Liotta's low spirits were more noticeable after Villanova took a 45-7 lacing at the hands of Louisiana State last week.

Although the college's official statement on the 225-pound player's death said he had been ill for the past two days, it was learned he practiced for the scheduled Tulsa game on Tuesday. The game, booked for the Oklahoma City Saturday, has been cancelled. It would have been the windup of a 9-game schedule in which Villanova won 5 and lost 3

Double Duty Player

The hard-working guard played on both offense and defense in this age of platoon football when most players specialize in either offense or defense. His coach, Art Raimo, rated him as "the finest collegiate lineman I've ever seen."

Raimo, himself a native of Everett, said "any coach in the country who had a Liotta on his team would be foolish not to use him every second he could."

Members of Liotta's family were stunned by the news of his death.

His father, Peter, a barber, told friends Nick "always was carefree and a great favorite with his classmates when he attended Everett High."

He said his son appeared "contented and in the best of spirits" during that last visit in Boston.

Besides the parents, one brother and 5 sisters survive.

Double Feature Scheduled For TV Football

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—(AP)—Television winds up the regular college football season Saturday with two coast to coast contests on NBC-TV and a special between games stunt titled "Herman Hickman's All-American Preview."

The Yale coach already is widely known to viewers through his frequent appearances in the Conrad Nagel Celebrity Times quiz on CBS-TV and his own program on WNHC-TV at New Haven, Conn. He plans to give his own selections of the 1951 college stars and introduce a number of football personalities including Fritz Crisler of the University of Michigan, Clarence L. Munn of Michigan State, Paul Bryant of the University of Kentucky and Jack Lavelle of Yale.

The program starting immediately after the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia and ending in time for the pickup of Notre Dame-Southern California at Los Angeles also will have films of five of the year's outstanding contests. Both telecast games and the Hickman session will be carried on a 52-station network.

Picks USC To Trounce Notre Dame

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—(AP)—If this fall season taught anyone anything it is that the weather, women, horses and football results are all unpredictable.

But here goes on the final round of football forecasts for 1951:

Navy over Army: For the first time in 8 years Navy enters the game as favorite. And almost for the first time since the series started 61 years ago there is little likelihood of an upset. Navy's defensive platoon to be the difference.

Southern California over Notre Dame: Little difference between the two with the home field giving the Trojans the edge.

Texas over Texas A. & M.: Even the spectators at this belated Thanksgiving Day tussle won't be able to pick the winner until the final second.

Tennessee over Vanderbilt: If the Vols have forgotten about their conquest of Kentucky this could be a massacre but it likely will not be.

Texas Christian over Southern Methodist: Here's where Keith Flowers, the TCU linebacker, does some rugged tackling.

Others in a hurry:

Baylor over Rice; Georgia over Georgia Tech; Alabama over Auburn; Miami over Nebraska; Tulsa over Detroit; Holy Cross over Boston College; Mississippi over Mississippi State; Kansas over Missouri; Oklahoma over Oklahoma A & M; LSU over Tulane.

Krigbaum Wins Xavier Grid Letter

Kevin Krigbaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Krigbaum of 706 Mt. Vernon Ave., was one of 31 gridders awarded varsity football letters at Xavier University last night.

Krigbaum, an outstanding lineman on the Musketeer grid squad during the past season, is a graduate of St. Mary High School.

PONT SHOWS WAY

OXFORD, O., Nov. 29—Halfback Johnny Pont, who closed out a brilliant Miami University football career Saturday against University of Cincinnati, wound up as the top Miami groundgainer on record. Statistics on Pont's three-year performance show he has accounted for 4,184 yards, an average of 9.5 yards for each time he has handled the ball over four years; scored 29 touchdowns and thrown passes for 3 others.

BEST IN BUCKEYELAND. Chosen Ohio's scholastic "coach of the year" in the 1951 International News Service poll of coaches, sports editors and sportscasters is Roy Hoyman, head man at Steubenville High School. Hoyman's team won nine games and lost only one this season. The "Big Red" coach, after graduating from Miami University, started out as mentor of Franklin High School team before coming to Steubenville, first as assistant and then head coach in 1949.

"Brat" Realizes Ambitions

Stanky "In" as Next Pilot For St. Louis Cardinals

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—(AP)—Eddie Stanky virtually is certain of succeeding Marty Marion as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

No definite agreement has been reached as yet, but Presidents Horace Stoneham of the New York Giants and Fred M. Saigh of the Cardinals will meet within the next few days with the hope of closing the deal, brewing since the World Series.

The transaction may not be announced until the minor league convention in Columbus next week.

The Cards will be asked to turn over Pitcher Max Lanier and Outfielder Chuck Diering for Stanky, who will then sign as a player-manager with the Redbirds for a two-year contract at $35,000 per season.

Although Saigh has been quoted as saying that he had 3 men in mind for the job, he has not seriously considered anybody other than Stanky.

Up To Stoneham

It was only a question whether Stoneham is loath to lose the the Giants' scrappy second baseman, admittedly the inspirational spark who drove the team to the National League flag last season.

Stoneham is loathe to lose the brainy "quarterback" of his infield, but is agreeable to the transaction only because he does not want to be accused of "blocking Stanky's chance of realizing his dream"—managing a big league club.

Saigh, who had rejected an earlier New York request for Enos Slaughter and Harry Brecheen, is equally reluctant to part with Lanier. Finally convinced, however, the Giants won't back down on their latest demand, the Redbird boss is ready to give up his veteran southpaw.

In acquiring the colorful Stanky, Saigh is getting the kind of manager he always has yearned for—an aggressive, firebrand type of leader who, from his record, is bound to instill fight and hustle into any club he is connected with.

Not Aggressive

Saigh's criticism of Marion was that Marty wasn't aggressive enough and didn't devote as much time as he should have to running the club.

That is a fault he won't find with Stanky, who talks and thinks baseball every waking hour of the day.

Reached in his home at Fair Hope, Ala., Stanky refused to discuss the matter until it was made official. However, he did say he was definitely interested in managing a big league club.

"I feel I am now ready to handle a job as a major league manager," he said. "However, I have not talked to Mr. Saigh."

Bright Case Costs League Two Schools

PEORIA, Ill, Nov. 29—(AP)—Johnny Bright's broken jaw has lost the Missouri Valley Conference two of its most influential members.

Bradley University of Peoria walked out last night, following Tuesday's withdrawal by Drake University of Des Moines over the much-publicized "Bright Case."

It all began on a sunny Saturday afternoon (Oct. 28) in Stillwater, Okla.

Drake was playing Oklahoma A. & M. Johnny Bright, Drake's star Negro halfback, wound up in the hospital after a few clashes with Aggie Guard Wilbanks Smith.

Drake, which lost the game and the services of Bright for all but a few minutes of the rest of the season, charged Bright was deliberately slugged by Smith. They demanded discipline by the conference.

Conference officials, after discussion of the matter, decided against any action.

That was enough for Drake. In hotfooting out of the loop Tuesday night, Drake said it couldn't countenance "refusal of the conference to investigate" the case.

Bradley University of Peoria, urged by its president to back Drake, followed suit. The Bradley faculty athletic committee said, "it is our duty to support the Drake position because we feel it to be morally right and because of the unusually close bond of friendly rivalry which exists between the two schools."

Princeton Again Wins Lambert Trophy in East

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—(AP)—For the second year in a row, Princeton has been named winner of the Lambert Trophy, symbolic of Eastern college football supremacy.

The all-conquering Tigers today were named first on the ballots of all but one of the 83 voters. Sportswriters, sportcasters and Lambert Trophy trustees took part in the balloting.

Once-beaten Holy Cross finished in second place and undefeated, untied Bucknell took third.

Prospect Juniors Down Claridon

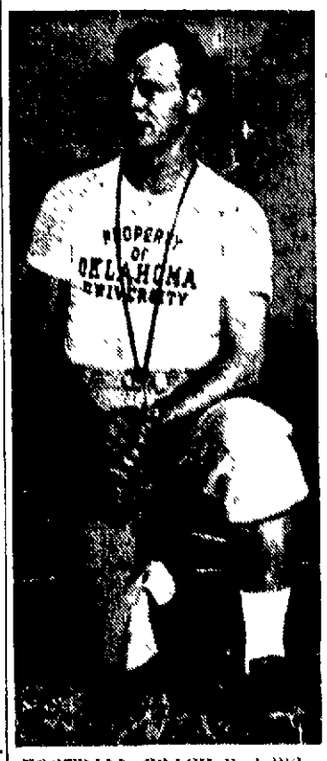
Prospect's junior high school cagers posted a 41-23 verdict over the Claridon Juniors last night in the first game of the Junior High League.

Roger Landon dumped in 15 points and Bob Emory scored 14 to pace the Prospect crew. Howser was high for Claridon with eight



FOOTBALL COACH Bud Wilkinson (above) has challenged New York Judge Streit to back up his charge that one of Oklahoma's grid stars was eased through his senior year on a program of "snap" courses. Wilkinson said "If Judge Streit will name the player he is referring to, we will be glad to make the record public."

BASKETBALL TIPOFF. Tomorrow night at spacious Veterans Memorial Coliseum, Harding's loyal basketball followers will get their first look at Coach Kenny Somerlot's quintet.

The Presidents will play their annual opener against Columbus Bexley, a school that largely thinks of football season as merely "the nine weeks before basketball."

The rivalry is a keen one and the locals will be out to avenge the loss in the opener last year at Bexley.

UNIMPRESSIVE. Earlier this week we saw the Prexies work out in practice sessions at the Coliseum and frankly came away unimpressed.

Somerlot isn't blessed with an over-abundance of material. The starting five of Robbie Miller, Dick Underwood, Jimmy Russell, Paul Colby, and Paul Geissler are players with ability, but the material falls off after that five.

Stretching 6-7, Miller will give the Prexies plenty of heighth under the boards, but the likeable youngster would be a better player if he wasn't such "a nice guy."

If Robbie has become more aggressive over the year, he could give Harding that much needed drive.

ONE-TWO PUNCH. Russell, Colby, Geissler, and Underwood will provide plenty of speed—which goes well on a big floor. Russell saw little service last year after an impressive start as a sophomore while Colby came on fast during the season to win a starting berth. Geisler and Underwood were used as replacements last year.

So far in early drills, it has been the work of Colby and Underwood which has brought smiles from Somerlot.

LESSON. The Harding cagers might take a note from their football class-mates. Last spring in drills the gridders made observers comment, "It looks like a hard winter," but Pete Hawkinson's crew went on to post at 6-3-1 record and finish second in the Buckeye League standings.

Spirit is considered the single factor which carried the Prexies on the gridiron and it could very well do it on the hardcourt.

Somerlot isn't overconfident, but says the players work well together and he figures on a better record despite the loss of such stars as Dean Ludwig, Jack Dalton, Gene Winters, and Danny Day.

With the Harding-Bexley game and plenty of time to get to a TV set for the Friday night fights, it looks like a busy evening is in store for Marion sports followers.

Army Rated Underdog In Navy Clash

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 29—(AP)—Army will go into Saturday's annual football tussle against Navy at Philadelphia with only one player that Coach Earl Blaik believes would have even a chance of breaking into the Middies' starting lineup.

That young man is Frederic D. Meyers, 19-year-old quarterback from Enid, Okla. Army's hopes of upsetting the experienced Middies depend largely on Meyers' pitching arm and his legs. He also does the punting and is a right fair country runner.

Although he has seen full time offensive action in only two games, against Villanova and the Citadel, Meyers' record shows he has completed 18 of 45 passes for 363 yards and one touchdown.

He also has scored two touchdowns rushing and caught several passes. He's the best receiver of aerials on the team. And his kicking has been more than adequate.

The 6-foot, 178-pound back was injured in the first six minutes of the Army's second game against Northwestern and he never returned to full time service until two weeks ago against Citadel.

STUCK DRIVER APPEALS

MEMPHIS, Tenn (UP) — The parking meter flag showed red but a note on the windshield explained: "Please don't give me a ticket. My car won't start. I will be after it this afternoon."

Silverstein Set For Armory Card

Ruffy Silverstein meets Jules LaRance and Maurice Roberre takes on Tony Sinatra in a double main event card tonight at the armory. Irish McGee and Joe Wolfe will tangle in a 30-minute opener.

Tickets for the program may be purchased at Markert and Lewis or at the armory after 6 p.m.

Red Sox Lose $100,000 On Catcher Les Moss

BOSTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—By marking off an estimated $100,000 cash outlay, the Boston Red Sox today were rid of Les Moss, their most disappointing catching investment, after gaining an eighth outfielder of major league caliber.

Moss, obtained from the St. Louis Browns last June for that huge sum plus Matt Batts, another backstop, was sent back to his old club, along with Tom Wright, a rookie outfielder. In return the Red Sox received Gus Niarhos, the slightly built catcher, and Ken Wood, an exceptionally strong-armed outfielder.

Morral Cage Hopes High

(This is the first in a series on Marion County basketball possibilities for this season).

When Coach Norm Weston issued a call for cage practice at Morral High School, he was greeted by four senior lettermen from last year's team which captured the runner-up spot in the Marion County League and tournament.

A potent attack which already has netted four straight wins this year, Weston has built his attack around this quartet. Sparked by Ronnie Craycraft, 6-3 ace, the starting crew includes lanky Jim Parker, a hawk-eyed under-the-board specialist, and Huston Ackley, one of the most dependable floor men seen in last winter's tournament. Ackley stands 5-10 and is matched at guard with running mate, Don Loudenslager are filling the vacancy created by the graduation of Bob Buckley and Knickle, spirited guards from last year's squad.

Twenty-five men greeted Weston and his assistant, Bob McFarland, when practice started. Virtually the same boys, with the exception of a few who dropped out, are still on hand to lend added strength.

Two sophomores, who served as members of the reserve crew last season, Junior Bell and Jim Shifflet, have been improving steadily and may soon move into the starting five.

The starting crew, in addition to the four seniors, usually includes John Craycraft, 6-1 sophomore, or Ted Murphy, 5-8, another sophomore. Both boys gained experience in reserve squad berths last year. The squad has been further strengthend by the addition of Jerry Issler, a member of the junior class. Issler was a pupil at Harding High School last year.

Weston and his cage stalwarts will open their campaign to steal the county league crown from Pleasant Friday night when they play host to Green Camp.

Tickets on Sale For Globe Trotters

Reserved seats for the professional basketball doubleheader at Veterans' Memorial Coliseum in Marion on Sunday, Dec. 9 featuring the world renowned Harlem Globetrotters go on sale today.

They will be available at Gallaher's Drug Store and the National City Bank in Marion. Mail orders may be sent to Harlem Globetrotters, Box 52, Marion, O.

In addition to the Globetrotters, three of the nation's leading pro cage clubs—the Boston Whirlwinds, Toledo Mercurys and Philadelphia Sphas—will round out the program which should be one of the highlights of the central Ohio basketball season.

EYES STOCK CAR PRIZE

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Nov. 29—(AP)—North Carolina's Herb Thomas has to hold on to his narrow lead until Dec. 15 to win the grand national championship of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing. The winner of the grand national crown receives 20 per cent of the drivers point fund, which is now more than $10,000. Thomas, with 4,208.45 points, has won $18,365 in prizes so far this year.

Upsets Coming Often

Browns Expect Tough Game With Lowly Cards

CLEVELAND, Nov. 29—(AP)—Coach Paul Brown is going to some little trouble to build up his champion Cleveland Browns mentally for Sunday's game against the Chicago Cards.

The champs, with 8 wins and only a single loss, are one and a half games ahead of the second-place New York Giants in the National Football League's American Division. And the Cards have won only 2 games in 9 starts.

But, says Brown:

"Everybody is getting beaten when they aren't supposed to this season. Who ever thought the Redskins would give the Rams a beating as they did Sunday? It seems almost inevitable that it will happen to us, too."

Rams Surprised

Washington upset the Los Angeles Rams, dumping them out of a tie for first in the National division.

"If we should lose to the Cardinals or (Pittsburgh) Steelers in the next 2 weeks," Brown continued, "that means we would need a victory in the final game at Philadelphia to clinch the division crown. Can you imagine how the (Philadelphia) Eagles would react if they had a chance to knock us out of first place in that final game?"

Cleveland beat the Cards, 34-17, the first time the clubs met this season—and had little trouble doing it. The only Brown loss was an upset at San Francisco in the first game of the season.

The only Cardinal to show among the leaders in the league's statistics is Fran Polsfoot, an end. He is the circuit's third best pass receiver and fifth best punter. He caught 44 passes for 604 yards and 5 touchdowns and has a 41.1-yard average for 31 punts.

The best Brown catcher, Dante Lavelli, ranks fourth with 32 receptions for 438 yards and three touchdowns. Horace Gillom, the Brown punter, leads the league with a 45.2-yard average for 50 kicks.

And the Cards have no passer to match Otto Graham, second in the league, with 110 completions for 1,700 yards, 10 touchdowns and an 8.9-yard average.

Unless a playoff is necessary to determine the division champ, it will be the Browns' last home game of the season.

Green Camp, Commercial Win In "Y" Basketball Openers

The YMCA Industrial and Independent Basketball League opened last night with a total of 6 games played in the 2 leagues. Both defending champions, Green Camp Elevator and Commercial Steel posted wins.

In the Industrial loop, Commercial defeated McMillen Feed, 57-40. Commercial led at the first quarter taking a 15 to 7 edge and was never headed by the losers. Morton, Rieff and Frank led the winners with 19, 17 and 14 points respectively while Shipman hit for 11, to head up the McMillen point getting.

General-Alloy gave signs of being the league power house this year as they had little trouble in downing Marion Power Shovel, 63-42. Acquiring the services of Jack Daum, Harding High School star of the past severa seasons, the winners promptly saw his actions pay off as he rolled up 28 points for the evening. Bud England and Harold Carver each chipped in with 14. Lowell Hensel carved out 13 points to lead the Shovel in their loss.

Huber, newest entry in this year's Industrial League edged Pollak in an overtime, 46-44. The game ended with the score knotted at 41 all. Hensel scored five points in the overtime, to give Huber a 46-44 edge. Danny McKinnis and Smith led Pollak with 15 each.

In the Independent loop, Green Camp had to go at full steam to defeat Pfeiffer's by a 62-49 score. Vern Hensel dumped in 17 points to lead the former champs while Dick Granger, former St. Mary star laid up 14 for the losers.

Jay Maish roared over Kroger's 77-33 as Don Williams with 17 points and the entire array of scorers rolled to an easy win. Every man on the Jay Maish squad except one got into the scoring column as their defense slowed down the losers to 33 total tallies. Corwin with 10 points was high man for the losers.

Ken Comstock, Martel Elevator high scorer for the past three seasons tossed in the evening's high total of 31 points as his team defeated the Sportsman Club by a 62 to 49 score. Comstock hit consistently with a one-hand push shot from the foul circle which the Sportsmen couldn't stop. Ernie Penn was high scorer for the losers with a total of 18.

Two Texas Schools Meet in Big Game

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Nov. 29 — (AP) — Texas and Texas A. & M. clash for the 58th time today and there's not too much bound up in this bitter rivalry than what victory might bring over an arch football foe.

A. & M. will be winding up probably its most disappointing season in history; Texas will be seeking to keep alive only a bare chance of tying for the Southwest Conference championship — and a possible shot at the Cotton Bowl.

But this game always has meant more than any championship or bowl bid. Back in 1894 the two state schools started battling and since 1915 there has been an unbroken string.

Through the years it has developed into the deepest rivalry and the most colorful game of any season in the southwest.

Not since 1939 has an Aggie team been able to puncture Texas. Only a 14-14 tie in 1948 has been in the records to console A. & M.

Texas is a 7-point favorite although A. & M. is the finest offensive team in the conference and even in the games it lost was magnificent.

Cover 219,938 Acres, Census Shows

Marion County Farms Worth $32 Million

Marion County farms are valued at approximately $32,000,000 and include 219,938 acres of land, according to a recently released U.S. Census Bureau report. The land was divided into 1,530 farms and represented 84.9 per cent of the land in Marion County.

The average size farm in this county is 143.3 acres. Included in the county are three farms with more than 1,000 acres while 132 include 10 or less acres. Farms of from 100 to 139 acres totaled 231, the largest class, while 212 were listed in the 140 to 179 acre class. The group from 500 to 999 acres included 22 farms.

Annual income on products sold totaled $10,000 or more annually on 328 farms while 250 others reported incomes ranging from $6,000 to $9,999.

All but 96 of the county's farms are equipped with electricity, the census report showed. Of the entire group, 908 have telephones. A large majority of the farm homes are equipped with other facilities such as electric washing machines, milkers, brooder houses, home freezers and hot water heaters.

Showing a decline since 1945 was the mule and horse population. Pigs, dairy cattle, beef cattle and sheep all showed a marked increase. Corn and wheat continued as the most important grains grown on Marion County farms.

Bethlehem Grange Hears Talk By Harold Patrick

Guest speaker for a recent meeting of Bethlehem Grange was Harold Patrick, chairman of the legislative committee of the Marion County Farm Bureau, who recently visited seven European countries on a tour arranged by the Cooperative League of the U.S.A. He told his audience of his many experiences while on the tour.

Also included in the evening's program was group singing and contests.

In the business session, a donation of money was given toward the "Go to Church" campaign. Mrs. Robert Howald, home economics chairman, announced plans for a rummage sale to be held Dec. 13 in the Palace Theater building. Members are to bring contributions for the sale to the next meeting. One new member was taken in, and an announcement was made of Pomona meeting to be held Dec. 1 with Grand Prairie Grange as the host Grange.

Named on the refreshment committee for the next meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mehaffey and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mehaffey. Presenting the program at this meeting will be Rev. William Reeves, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church. A paper craft artist, he will tell the Christmas story with illustrations.

Fixin's for The Yule Turkey

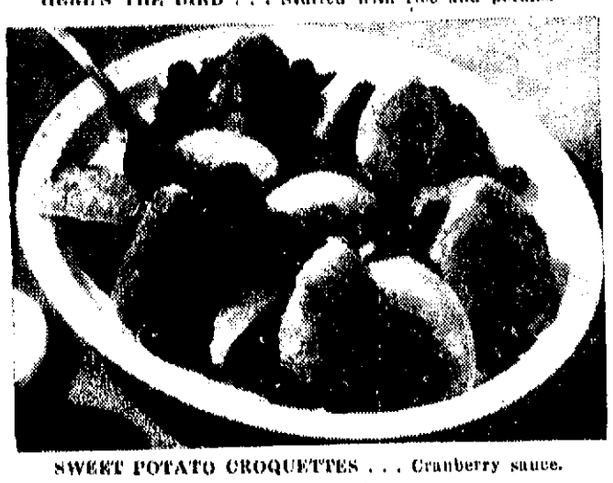
HERE'S THE BIRD . . . Stuffed with rice and pecans.



SWEET POTATO CROQUETTES . . . Cranberry sauce.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's an especially delicious dressing with which to stuff your roast turkey so it really will crown your Christmas dinner. Then team cranberries and sweet potatoes in a different kind of dish and serve along with the bird, plus any other vegetables you wish, and maybe a salad. Here are the recipes:

RICE AND PECAN STUFFING

Ingredients: 1½ cups rice (uncooked), 3 cups water, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup chopped onion, 1½ cups chopped celery, 3 cups toasted fine bread crumbs, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 3 eggs (slightly beaten), ¾ teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 cup chopped pecans, salt and pepper (to taste).

Method: Spread the uncooked rice in a shallow pan and place in moderate (350° F.) oven until rice is a light brown color—20 to 30 minutes. Stir rice occasionally to brown evenly. Place toasted rice in a saucepan with water and salt; bring to a boil. Cover with tight-fitting lid, lower heat, and simmer for 14 minutes. Remove lid to permit rice to steam dry. Meanwhile cook onion and celery in butter or margarine until onion is transparent but not browned. Mix with rice and remaining ingredients. Season with salt and pepper. Stuff lightly into bird. Makes 9 cups; enough stuffing for a 10 to 12 pound ready-to-cook-weight turkey.

CROQUETTES, CRANBERRIES

Ingredients: 2 cups mashed sweet potatoes, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, ⅛ teaspoon ground cloves, 1 cup gingersnap crumbs, 2 cups fresh cranberries, 1 medium apple (peeled, cored, and diced), 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup liquid (orange juice and water to make ½ cup), 2 oranges (peeled and sectioned).

Method: Mix together potatoes, salt, orange rind, and cloves. Shape in to 4 to 6 cones; roll in gingersnap crumbs; chill. Mix cranberries, apple, sugar, and liquid in saucepan; stir over low heat until sugar is dissolved, then simmer 15 minutes. Place sweet potatoes in greased 8-inch square pan; pour sauce around potatoes; arrange orange sections on top of sauce. Bake in moderately hot (375° F.) oven 15 to 20 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

A Nervous Condition of Aged

Most people have probably seen one or more cases of Parkinson's disease, though they may not have known what it was. People with this disease can often carry on their business and get around to a degree.

Parkinsonism, or shaking palsy, is a failure of the nervous system that attacks older people. Studies have been made for many years in an effort to find a cure for it.

The exact cause of the condition is unknown, but it often follows an attack of encephalitis or inflammation of the brain, or hardening of the arteries supplying a part of the brain.

The first sign of Parkinson's disease is a shaking in one of the arms or legs. This tremor gradually becomes worse. As the disease progresses, the person's face loses the ability to change expression, and takes on the appearance of a mask. There is also stiffness of the arms and legs. Often, when these persons start to walk, their steps become shorter and shorter, until the walk becomes a run that cannot be stopped except by bumping into something.

Surgery has been tried as a cure for this disease, but has not proved very helpful. Drugs have offered greater hope. Benadryl, hyocine hydrobromide, and others have sometimes helped greatly.

Recently, attempts have been made to provide relief through physical therapy. One program included massage together with exercises in which an assistant moved the patient's affected arms and legs. During this treatment, the person almost always feels better, more relaxed and comfortable. However, the improvement does not seem to last more than an hours or so.

Another type of treatment used resistance-exercises to strengthen a special set of muscles. These exercises seem to bring a definite improvement in the patient's ability to use those muscles, but they do not seem to help the other symptoms.

Questions and Answers

M.L.B.: What causes cataracts and is there any cure for them without operation?

Answer: Cataracts may be due to a general aging process or to the effects of excessive heat, X-rays, or radiation; they may follow injury, or a systematic disorder, such as diabetes.

Sometimes, cataracts can be helped by frequent changes in glasses, so that usual vision may be maintained. However, surgery holds the only permanent cure.

WALDO CLUB MEETS

The study topic "What's Going on at School?" was given by Mrs. Marjorie Demorest. Contest prizes were awarded to Mrs. Nina Ruth Hedges and Mrs. Temple. Guessing box was won by Mrs. Dorothy Fogle. Mrs. Grace Klingel was co-hostess.

Annual Program To Be Given in Epworth Church

Civic Chorus To Present Handel's "The Messiah" in Marion Sunday

Traditionally in Marion, the first Sunday night in December is the time of presentation by the Civic Chorus of the world famous oratorio, "The Messiah," by the old master composer, George Frederick Handel.

This year's performance Sunday at 8 o'clock in Epworth Methodist Church will be by the vested chorus of 100 voices, with guest conductor and soloists, and instrumental ensemble accompaniment as is the usual custom.

Prof. Rexford Keller, head of the department of music at Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware, is the conductor.

Soloists are Mrs. Janet Fonholt of Columbus, soprano, Paul Mattes and Prof. John Bennett Ham, both of Springfield, tenor and baritone respectively, and Mrs Esther Hale, contralto, president of the Civic Chorus.

Accompanists are Miss Rosaline Manzo who will preside at the piano, and Mrs. Eliza T. Williams at the organ, and the string ensemble will be composed of musicians from Delaware, Romine Hamilton and Mrs. Jean Hart, violins, Mrs. Martha Bowles, viola, and Frank Embo, cello. Mrs. Dorothy Jennings is assistant pianist.

Eight Selections

Eight chorus selections of the best loved work from the pen of the great composer will be presented by the Marion group, with the solo recitatives and airs and instrumental music. It is the story in song of the birth, life, death and resurrection of Christ from the Bible inspired writings of an English poet and the musical genius, Handel.

In a tribute by the Rev. Ashley Booth, president of the Marion County Ministerial Association, to the worth of this music and expressing appreciation for the community's opportunity to hear "The Messiah," he referred to the scriptural quotation, "Man canont live by bread alone." Spiritual food is necessary also, it was pointed out, and "music is the universal language of the message of God's love." He termed it an "unusual privilege" for the citizens to hear this annual "testimony to the truth of our faith."

Completed in 1742, "The Messiah" has timeless appeal through its quality of bringing to each listener a sense of the power through the greatest life ever lived to triumph over his own earthly struggles. The composer in his own life found a kinship in the narrative of the life of Christ, and knowledge of his supreme experience of this discovery gives an even greater appreciation of the music he wrote to express it.

Inspired To Write It

Handel, a once honored musician, ill, crippled, and defeated by jealous rivals, found his life in London scarcely worth living in 1741, it is recorded. Then he found a cure. Strength and movement returned to his paralyzed limbs, and in a new surge of creativeness he again won honors, but events found him not yet ready for his masterpiece. Good fortune did not last, and again circumstances made his life bitter. Then came from the poet, Charles Jenner, a libretto to be used as a sacred oratorio. Uninterested as he first read the words, the composer came to the passage, "He was despised and rejected of men. He looked for someone to have pity on Him, but there was no man; neither found He any to comfort Him."

To Handel the words began to have a great and special meaning. In the hours following, he neither ate nor rested until, with the finishing touches of the work coming to form he was overcome with emotion. When music publishers in London were unimpressed with his composition, he took "The Messiah" to Ireland, merged two choirs and, on April 13, 1742, presented it for the first time. Word had gone out of the great merit of the work and large crowds came to hear it. The response of the first audience, rising spontaneously to its feet at the conclusion for the singing of the "Hallelujah Chorus," hase become a tradition which is followed wherever the oratorio is sung today.

As in previous years here, an overflow crowd is expected at Epworth Church, with many coming from a distance as well as from the city and the vicinity. Doors will be open to the public at 7.

Newton D. Cunningham, councilman at large and chairman of the Fire Pension Board, said today a report made at Monday night's meeting of City Council that the pension board had recommended Council turn down the request of Mrs Lillian McDonough was incorrect.

He said the pension board had taken no formal action on the request and had announced no stand.

Mrs McDonough had filed with Council a request for money she felt she was entitled to. The money requested would have been received by thel ate Charles McDonough, city fireman, last summer as vacation pay. Mr. McDonough died before his vacation fell due.

Council killed the request after discussion on the legal aspects Monday night.

Senate Committee Reports

Defense Production "Dangerously Behind Schedule," Says Group

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29—(AP)—Production of defense items has "fallen dangerously behind schedule," a Senate subcommittee reported last night and it recommended that the government "take a greater bite out of civilian production."

Senator Lyndon B Johnson (D-Texas) chairman of the armed services subcommittee set up to keep an eye on the military preparedness program said in a statement accompanying the report

"Under any circumstances we will have to have both guns and butter But somebody is going to have to decide how much butter and how many guns Furthermore that decision will have to be made in terms of the national defense instead of the national appetite."

In a critical 10,000-word report, the group reported "deliveries of defense hard goods—planes, tanks, ships, and guns—have fallen dangerously behind schedule"

Suggest New "Czar"

The subcommittee suggested appointment of a new "procurement czar" with broad powers within the Defense Department

It said this official might be a new undersecretary of defense or the present chairman of the munitions board, John D Small, given additional powers

In any event, the report to the Senate said defense production must get first claim and top priority on scarce materials machine tools and manpower

The report said that, after meeting all needs to reach production targets fixed by top military strategists any other resources should be used this way

"1 To expand the industrial base so that if an attack comes we will have the industrial capacity necessary to produce the enormous quantities of weapons and goods required by a total war

"2 To assure an adequate supply of critical war materials for essential wartime production

"3 To maintain as healthy a civilian economy at as high a rate of civilian production as possible in view of the more compelling demands upon our resources"

The report said that more than a year had elapsed after start of the Korean war before defense officials drastically cut back use of critical materials for non-essential civilian goods and restricted new model designs on automobiles.

Too Late, Too Light

"This and other steps are in the right direction, the report said 'But they did not come soon enough and we are by no means convinced that they go far enough

"Mobilization progress is not going well and we believe Congress and the public are entitled to be informed as to this fact"

Such officials as Mobilization Director Charles E Wilson have publicly taken a less pessimistic view of the situation Wilson said this week that production was moving along at a World War II rate

Although Congress provided more than $110 000 000 000 defense funds and contracts were let promptly the subcommittee said, deliveries of aircraft guided missiles tanks and electronics lagged seriously behind initial estimates

The group said it could not give details of secret military reports But it listed this production data for the April-June quarter this year aircraft 34 per cent short, guided missiles, 70 per cent, tanks, 40 per cent, electronics, 30 per cent

The report censured defense officials for revising original production goals downward as deliveries lagged, calling this 'little short of a fraud on the nation

It said shortages of steel, aluminum, copper, machine tools, and plants were chief bottlenecks in meeting production targets

The report noted that machine tool reserves had been set up after the last war by the Army, Navy and Air Force It said the Air Force had made its unused tools available but the Army and Navy did not

Cite Non-cooperation

"There has been too much bureaucratic 'pulling and hauling, too much interservice rivalry too much interdepartmental sparring,' the report said "At times it has given the impression of being a free-for-all at Donnybrook rather than a cooperative effort in the common defense '

The report also was critical of businessmen and industries who it said have been unwilling to take defense contracts

"We do not question the patriotism of the American businessman" the report said, but it added

"We are distressed by reports that the military services have found it necessary to buy the managements of business in order to get expeditiously production of complex end items

'We are told that excessive inducements, such as assurances of large profits unlimited loan possibilities and availability of government - furnished equipment, have had to be held out to essential prime contractors in order to secure their cooperation

"The businessman must sacrifice with the rest of us He has as much to lose as anyone else if we cannot defend ourselves '

SCHOOL COUNCIL MEETS

At a meeting of the Advisory Council representing the faculty of the Marion City Schools, a resolution was adopted expressing appreciation of the confidence shown by the citizens of Marion through their support of the school levy at the recent election Other business included an agreement that each teacher should receive a statement concerning sick leave Reports were given by school representatives relative to the new salary schedule The next meeting will be held early in the new year.

Driver Fined For Leaving Accident Scene

Arrested After Collision of Cars On E. Church St.

George William Mitchell, 37, of near Caledonia was fined $50 and costs in Municipal Court Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident.

He admitted he was the driver of a car which struck one driven by Mrs. Cora B. Bill of 389 Lee St. Mrs. Bill's daughter, Faith Bill, 14, became frightened at the collision and suffered shock, police said. She was taken home by her mother. The accident occurred on E. Church St. at 10:50 p.m. Tuesday.

Following the collision a radio alarm was broadcast by police for the hit-skip car, which had been damaged. At 1 a.m. Mitchell was arrested in Caledonia by a patrolman from the Marion Station of the State Highway Patrol. Mitchell was lodged in City Prison for the night, and was taken to Marion County Jail Wednesday when he could not pay his fine. His driving rights were also suspended for three years.

Minor damage was reported when cars driven by Harold L. Williams, 25, of 538 Cherry St. and Peter A. Peterson, 41, of 351 S. Grand Ave. collided at W. Church St. and Orchard St. at 8:05 a.m. Tuesday.

Galion Woman Reunited With Sister After 40 Years

Special To The Star

GALION—A Galion woman is planning a reunion with her sister this week for the first time in 40 years. She is Mrs. James L. Walker, wife of Police Chief Walker of Galion. She will go to Mansfield, Wednesday, when her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Redgwick, arrive from England.

The Redgwicks were aboard the Queen Elizabeth when the boat docked Tuesday in New York. They will live in Mansfield with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Baldwin, who came to this country a year ago. The Redgwicks leave their youngest married daughter in England.

Mrs. Walker left England when she was a child. Her sister, Mrs. Redgwick, 11 years older, remained in England. The two women have a brother, William Nash of Mansfield, who has not seen Mrs. Redgwick in 30 years.

There will be a family dinner at the Nash home in Mansfield Wednesday, to celebrate the reunion of sisters and brother. Their mother, the late Mrs. Charles McLaughlin, died three years ago in Galion.

Operation Chaos

'Grand Ole Opry," a noisy, mad, disjointed operation that has been on NBC for a quarter of a century (9 30 p m EST Saturdays), has driven a succession of producers nutty, including its current one, Jack Stapp. One of those New York fellows, Stapp was appalled when he got to Nashville where the show originates to discover that the performers were accustomed to walk around backstage, smoke, talk, play and sing and pay absolutely no attention cues

A man on stage will say into the mike "Where's Jim? Saw him around a minute ago Well, he'll be along" Somebody else fills in until Jim in his own good time wanders in The performers—Roy Acuff, Red Foley, Hank Williams, all great hillbilly stars—have successfully resisted any attempt to bring order out of this chaos and Stapp now thinks it would probably wreck the show if he did. Still he occasionally gets a little irritated and not long ago, when things got a little out of hand he screeched 'There's too goddam much talking on the hymn."

John Crosby

THE PERFORMERS kid Stapp unmercifully, one device being to talk about him as if he weren't there 'Shall we give him notice?' one man will drawl "Why?" says another. 'We ain't paid him no mind for five years" New performers on the show also take quite a razzing from the old hands The first time Minnie Pearl, Grand Ole Opry s hillbilly comedienne and monologuist, did her act she was greeted by thunderous applause Going backstage, feeling quite pleased with herself, she encountered one of the old hands who inquired. 'Bin on yet?"

Minnie (real name Sarah Ophelia Colley) spent three years travelling through remote rural areas in the south to pick up material for her acts, and her conversation is studded with odd hillbilly phrases As a measure of distance, she's likely to remark 'Oh, it's about six-wagon-greasings away'—an expression that stems back to the time when folks had to grease the wheels at regular intervals When she first met her husband, Henry Cannon, she said "We backed off about four axe handles"

* * *

THE HILLBILLY STARS—Acuff, in particular—have all been made wealthy by their recordings of hillbilly songs, drive Cadillacs and live well but, according to Minnie, they could go back to their hillbilly ways without a murmur if the money ran out They're not far removed from the old life, anyway Eighty-seven year old Dave Macon, who has been on the show for all of its twenty-five years, playing the banjo and singing, once motored to California with Roy Acuff In the back of the Cadillac was a big wooden box, containing a Tennessee ham At every restaurant they stopped, Uncle Dave would lug in his ham and explain "I'm Uncle Dave Macon from Grand Ole Opry Will you cut me off a piece of ham? I can't eat nothing but home food"

"He wore his big bib the widder woman gave him," remarked Minnie (Uncle Dave has since given up the widder woman, fearing a breach of promise suit)

THE POPULAR hillbilly and cowboy songs on 'Grand Ole Opry,' admits Minnie, are not authentic folk songs or even very close to them Real folk songs, she points out, have about 28 verses apiece and they haven't that much time on the show However, one of their singers, Hank Williams—also a songwriter—sings songs whose mood is authentic in that they all deal with heartbreak and trouble. (I'm the same old trouble you done bin through," is a line from one of them)

The fiddle tunes, though, are real old-time fiddle tunes there hasn't been a new one on the show in 11 years The local folk who turn out in droves for the "Grand Ole Opry" broadcast love fiddle tunes and the show always opens with one Though the network carries only half an hour of it now, "Grand Ole Opry" actually goes on for four-and-a-half hours and WSM in Nashville carries all of it

It is broadcast from Ryman Auditorium in Nashville, a former opry house which seats 5,000 people The 60-cent tickets are as hard to get as tickets for "Guys and Dolls" and people arrive three hours early for the privilege of sitting on the hard wooden benches inside.

Music Program Given At Auxiliary Meeting

A potluck supper preceded a musical program when Roosevelt Auxiliary No 277, to Roosevelt Lodge, entertained Monday night in the Labor Union Hall Husbands and friends of the members were guests Chairman was Mrs Lottie Roller

Marjorie Fabian entertained with a clarinet solo, Judy Fabian played two flute solos, Bobby Winters a violin solo and Marie Dripps sang a solo. An original skit, 'A Telephone Conversation," by Mrs Priscilla Connell was given by Mrs Connell, Mrs Eva Parish and Mrs Roller

Euchre was played with prizes going to Mrs Connell and Ray Beverly Dancing completed the entertainment

STUDY CLUB MEETS

Mrs Arthur F Tyde and Mrs Francis Voll were hostesses for a meeting of the Sancta Maria Study Club of St Mary PTA Monday night at the home of the former on Hane Ave "What Is to Be Educated?" was the program topic presented by Mrs H A Kingbaum and Mrs. Alonzo Granger

Erie Declares $1.25 Dividend

Brings Total 1951 Payment to $1.75

NEW YORK, Nov. 29—A dividend of $1.25 on Erie Railroad common stock was declared by the board of directors Tuesday, bringing the total 1951 payment to $1.75, the same as last year. Fifty cents was paid in June. The dividend is payable Dec. 21 to holders of record Dec. 7 out of earnings of previous years.

In making the announcement, Paul W. Johnston, president, said, "Gross revenues for this year are 8.7 per cent higher than a year ago, but even though greater operating efficiences and economies are being produced by diesel locomotives and in other ways, our expenses are up 13.6 per cent, mostly due to increased wage and material costs.

"Railroad earnings are being impaired and the industry is being weakened by the failure of the Interstate Commerce Commission to authorize an adequate increase in the selling price of railroad service to compensate for those higher costs. Other industries are permitted to raise prices when their costs go up, yet the 'Iron Horse' is expected to get along on fewer oats while pulling a heavier load."

Nazarene Revival Services Planned

Week-end revival services have been planned by First Church of the Nazarene to begin Friday night and continue through Sunday with the Rev. Thomas Pauley Jr. as the preacher. He is a senior student at Olivet Nazarene College at Kankakee, Ill. On the opening night, a Men's quartet from Galion featuring John Campbell, Scottish born Galion resident, will sing.

The Rev. Mr. Pauley is a member of the New Boston Church of the Nazarene where the Rev. C. L. Wooten, pastor here, served previously. He plans to enter the Nazarene Theological Seminary at Kansas City, Mo., next year.

In high school, he was outstanding in football, basketball, baseball and track. A member of various college clubs, he is general president of the young people's societies of the college church which includes several chapters in the organization. He is vice president of the college's student prayer band, and president of the "O" Club. Time of the service Friday night is 7:30, and the meetings are open to the public with adults as well as young people invited.

SENT OFFERING TO HOME

An offering was sent to the Odd Fellows Home in Springfield by Wayside Rose Rebekah Lodge when the group met Nov. 23 in the IOOF Hall. Second nomination of officers was held. Election of officers will be held at the Dec. 14 meeting, which will also include a quarterly birthday supper at 6 p.m., a white elephant sale, and a gift exchange. ## One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

If Eisenhower really wants to be drafted, why doesn't he claim he has flat feet, poor eyesight and a dependent wife . . . that will get him in immediately.

They took in one scrawny kid who looks so bad neighbors said "Why doesn't your father go to the draft board and protest?" He said "He can't, they took him yesterday.

They said to the kid "don't you want to be over there with Eisenhower?" He said "No, I'd rather stay over here with Truman."

They said "You'll see Paris, Berlin, maybe Pusan . . . You'll get a lot out of it." He said "Why can't I just see Washington, there's a lot to be gotten there too?"

Anyway they gave him 21 days to arrange his affairs and he has several months to arrange his ballot.

I don't know who he's going to vote for but he says he hates music and Taft is no piccolo player.

Milkman Finds Life Somewhat Puzzling

PHOENIX, Ariz.—(UP)— Roy Mallory, milkman, thinks he knows where the man who writes the income tax instructions gets his start in life . . . by scribbling directions for the milkman to puzzle out in the dawn's early light when he collects the empties.

From his own route, and those of his fellow drivers, Roy offers these samples of notes in milk bottles:

"One of the bottles you gave us the bottom fell out. Please 7 more of them."

"25 pounds. Thank you."

"Don't leave milk. My windows are drawn."

"Milk man: Please put ice box. If dog objects don't leave any."

"Eight quarts medium size."

Miss Jane Coons, the celebrants' granddaughter, Miss Shirley Montgomery and Miss Dora Wygle assisted with refreshments.

More than 100 relatives and friends called. Those from a distance came from Lorain, Mansfield, Columbus, Marion, Laflue, Mt. Victory, Marysville, Richwood and Lakeland, Fla.

Mr. Coons has retired from farming, which has been his occupation since his marriage. He was first president of the Union County Farm Bureau, served two terms as Union County commissioner, and several years on the Washington Township School Board.

The couple will leave next week for Lakeland, Fla., to spend the winter.

Formulas Won't Work

TWENTY-SIX years ago Congress put a top limit of $25,000 on a senatorial candidate's campaign spending. It should be a matter of lively interest to investigators probing the Taft-Ferguson contest of 1950 that this was $23,407.08 more than Senator Taft reported to the secretary of the Senate as his expenditures in the race.

The catch is, of course, that Senator Taft's reported expenditure of $1,592.92 represented money out of his own pocket. All the rest of the money spent in his behalf during the campaign came from other pockets. And there is no limit on what may come from the other pockets.

Furthermore, any attempt to put a limit on the over-all cost of a campaign would end either in futility or tragedy. Formulas won't work. For example, Senator Taft, himself, feels that spending might be limited to 10 cents per person. But he has overlooked the probability that sooner or later more than 10 cents might have to be spent in behalf of a candidate who needed extraordinary support.

This might be a candidate trying to overcome the impact of billions spent by a national administration for his indirect benefit. It might be a candidate trying to supplant someone who had gone sour and was defying the will of the people. Formulas won't work. The $25,000 limit imposed 26 years ago didn't work.

All things being equal, the friends of candidates will spend what they think is necessary to give them and their candidate a winning campaign. The system is not perfect. But it is better than any arbitrary formula which could be developed by Congress.

Takes Two To Make a Fix

THE big boom is starting to swing in the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The latest and largest group of firings suggests that the Democratic party is going to have a housecleaning even if it knocks itself out in the process.

That is the only way it can save what is left of its reputation for honesty. In the only parallel to this situation, the Teapot Dome scandal, a frontal attack on the offending officeholders convinced voters that the Republican party was willing to clean its own house. They liked the idea.

Pending further development in the housecleaning, however, there is one thing about corruption in this vital bureau which should not be overlooked. While there are instances in which the irregularities already disclosed were unilateral, as the diplomats might say, most of the irregularities were bilateral.

It took two persons to make the fix—the employe of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and a taxpayer. Where that happens, there is no choice between crooks. The act of corrupting a public official is just as blameworthy as the crime of being corrupted.

Prisoners in Paradise

THE Kremlin is angry because it says the United States has set aside a large sum of money to help "selected persons" behind the iron curtain, or who recently have reached this side, to resist the Communist conspiracy.

Its anger can be understood on this side of the Atlantic. Nothing is more irritating than to know that another government is paying the bill for subversive activities. Until the Kremlin promised it would quit doing that sort of thing, the United States refused diplomatic recognition to Russia. The Kremlin promised to quit doing it again, early in World War II, when it dissolved the Cominform. But in fact it has worked tirelessly since the twenties to overthrow every government it could not control. However the United States is not trying to overthrow anything. It is only trying to help involuntary Communists to escape.

Without the benefit of a Communist conspiracy to put punch into its efforts, the United States will get no more results from its program than it would have had with no expenditure at all. It does not have to pay money to make citizens of Russia and its satellites want to escape. If the iron curtain were raised, they would escape by the millions.

That remains the singular fact about Stalin's workers' paradise—that those on the outside do not want to go there and those on the inside don't want to stay there.

It Would Make a Difference

THE official charge that the Soviet Union has intercepted and shot down a U.S. naval plane flying over international waters off Siberia is likely to be the starting point for a series of realizations.

First and greatest of the realizations is that Russian control of China makes Russia a potential naval power in the Pacific. The United States, having destroyed Japanese naval power in the Pacific, will not be able to afford to take Russia's bid for power lightly.

If the time ever came when Russia could challenge the United States in the Pacific, Americans would be keenly aware of the insecurity involved in living between two oceans unless they control the oceans.

Alarms of 1952

By Raymond Moley

THE Honorable Sam Rayburn, speaker of the House of Representatives, speaking before the Southern Governors' Conference at Hot Springs, said, among other things: "If some of these fellows that have been talking like, uh, well, I might say Bob Taft, was to get elected President, and the people were to think between November and Jan. 20th that they were going to put their threats into performance, money being as scary as it is, we might have a great panic in that time. I fear that myself."

MOLEY

Rayburn later denied that he used this exact statement, but a friend of mine who is a good reporter checked it on the tape recording at a local radio station.

President Truman has had a lot to say about "scare" words, but this specimen is about as "scary" as could be conceived. It probably represents the type of campaign planned for next year—a campaign of fear and general intimidation.

TO DO THIS is clearly to put party interest ahead of the national interest and to introduce elements of instability which cannot help an economic system which is struggling under a heavy tax burden while it seeks to arm this country and help many others.

It is not clear what the speaker means by the "threats" that Taft has been making. Perhaps it is his promise to reduce expenditures. The Rayburn logic in that case is that if the present high rate of spending and inflation is checked, we shall have idle factories and idle workmen. That means that this administration is determined to follow its present course of more and more inflation, more and more debt. For it is already clear that expenditures beyond the present level of taxes must be paid from borrowed money. We have for the moment reached the point of diminishing returns. And the Rayburn "scare" is that the election of Taft would mean sudden deflation and panic.

THERE WILL BE other "scares" as the campaign progresses. One will be the charge of warmongering. We will be told that a Taft victory will be a MacArthur victory and that will mean a war with Russia in Asia. That sort of appeal worked so well against Churchill in the British election last month that it will certainly be used over here. For without that appeal, the Conservatives would have won by a greatly increased majority.

As compared with the Rayburn indiscretion, President Truman's political speech to the Democratic women was highly restrained and almost dignified. But Truman, more politically astute than Rayburn, believes in saving his "scares" for a more opportune time. They will appear, however, when real political hostilities begin. Rayburn was merely offside.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

Peter W. Holverstott, lifelong resident of Marion County, was what was known as an everyday worker and one who did not believe in farming by proxy. It was said of him that in his time he could come as near filling two men's places in the harvest field or at threshing time as any man in his part of the county. His farm in Claridon Township was without a house of any kind when he purchased it in 1862. Starting a home on the farm was like building in the Wild West as the family could not step out with out getting into hazel brush and had to carry all the water needed for drinking and cooking purposes from a well that was nearly half a mile away.

Builder-Uppers

By TRUMAN TWILL

ONE of the lushest of all pursuits these days is public relations. The reason is obvious.

Public relations is the art of knowing how to put one's best foot forward where it will be seen, admired and not stepped on by mistake. At a time when experts in the art of stepping on feet are busy 24 hours a day, there is a bull market for the services of experts who know how to frustrate these bruisers of sensitive feelings.

One of the bullest of all markets, is in Washington, where millions of taxpayers' dollars are spent to persuade said taxpayers they should not grouse about the billions being spent.

But the juiciest market is found where the government's money comes from — private industries and individuals who have discovered only recently that in a representative democracy it matters a great deal what the public thinks. This is because it is the public which does the voting. No matter how admirable you think you are, someone had better agree in large numbers or you will be voted into oblivion anyway.

There is much lost ground to be made up, because experts in creating ill will have been busy for half a century, whereas the experts in creating good will are of recent origin. And to keep this piece from being a one-sided treatment of the subject, some of the illest will formerly was created by the same people now creating good will.

In New York City today, there are at least 600 organizations with public relations advice to sell. The boys now have their own trade associations, codes of ethics—and of course their own public relations experts.

An expert does everything from furnishing names and addresses on demand to ghost-writing policy-making speeches for executives whose minds go blank when they stand up in public. He is hired to bridge the chasm which has opened up between the super-colossal corporation and the little people with whom it does business, keeps on its own payrolls and must appeal to on election day. If the expert knows his trade, he can whip up a lovable personality for his client—something more lovable than that of a soulless corporation.

Public relations experts can thank two things for their prosperity, which now is considerable. First, they can thank modern civilization, which piles up complexities so deeply they must be shoveled away by someone who knows how to handle a shovel. Second, they can thank the people who are hell-bent on tearing down everything which has been built up in the name of free enterprise.

Professional builder - uppers have been given a golden opportunity to show what can be done with what used to be called the "common touch" — formerly a commodity with no price tag attached because anyone could have it for the taking.

Cooperation Without Compromise

By George E. Sokolsky

MY FRIEND, Rabbi Joshua L. Goldberg, has recently been appointed a captain in the Navy of the United States. Of course, captains are often appointed for the Navy, but not in the Chaplain Corps. This particular one is of the America saga.

Joshua Goldberg was born in Bobrouisk, a small town of southern Russia, into a middle class Jewish household. He was reared in religious orthodox and in the spirit of his people, studying in Odessa and Tel Aviv.

In 1916 he came to the United States and enlisted in the Army in World War I. Because he knew no English, he was regarded as ignorant, possibly illiterate that, despite the fact that he knows many European and ancient languages. English he learned in Army barracks from soldiers and books.

SOKOLSKY

After World War I, Joshua Goldberg went to college and studied to be a rabbi. He was called to pulpits and he engaged in communal activities until World War II faced this country. He was the first rabbi to enlist as a naval chaplain in that war. For about 10 years now he has devoted his life to the United States Navy.

THERE ARE MANY chaplains in the Army and the Navy, but none like Josh, as everybody calls him. He knows no other life. He has no other interest. When the war was over, most chaplains in the Naval Reserve returned to their congregations, but Josh continued in the Navy.

It had never before happened that a rabbi was made the chief chaplain of a naval district, but the time came when Catholics and Protestants demanded a recognition of Joshua Goldberg's untiring and selfless services. And so he was appointed chief chaplain of the third naval district, which embraces New York, Connecticut, and the upper half of New Jersey.

The motto of the Navy's chaplain corps is "cooperation without compromise." This slogan could be translated into "we all work together but hold on to our own." Perhaps in no military service have the men of God come so close to each other, despite differences in creed and ritual, as in the United States Navy.

A spirit of understanding and tolerance moves these men to work together, stimulating a respect for American ideals. It is not a matter of routine; it is a uniting in a common cause; it is an anxiety to breathe into the boys the holy spirit of faith in God and love of country so that when their tour of service is ended, their sense of duty continues.

WHEN IT IS REALIZED that Rabbi Joshua Goldberg has only been an American since he enlisted in World War I, it is an astonishing fact that he has spent nearly a dozen years in the military service of his adopted country. And in that devotion, he has contributed amply to the development of the cooperative genius of the Chaplain Corps.

In fact, only by a recognition of the importance of the futility of compromise can cooperation be achieved. For only men of principle, of tradition, of sureness of credo can work together in idealism without lowering themselves to the least common denominator. Instead, such men choose the noblest in their own disciplines as the goal for life and work. They aim not at a leveling down but raise their sights to the heights of God's laws of life.

Thus a rabbi can read the services of the Roman Catholic Church to a boy dying not alone but in the company of a man devoted to the God of all men; thus a Protestant may read in transliterated Hebrew the prayers that can alone heal the wounds of fear; thus each gives what is needed without giving up what to him seems essential.

A CAPTAINCY in the Navy is a high honor. Only 18 chaplains are captains; only two are rear admirals. For a rabbi to have achieved this rank is an honor to all Jews and to America. It is something that the Voice of America can proudly blare to all Europeans, for it shows that in this country achievement knows no racial or religious difference.

The opportunity for rewards should in this country always be open to those who have accepted the opportunity to serve. This promotion will be an encouragement to others to realize that ours is neither a forgetful nor an ungrateful republic. We sometimes act as though we are both forgetful and ungrateful, but in time the American heart exhibits its warmth and its regard for those who truly love America.

New Finance Plan for Cities

CITIES and states are relying increasingly on lease-purchase agreements to finance new buildings and improvements.

An article in the current issue of "Municipal Finance," quarterly journal of Municipal Finance Officers Association, points out that recent decisions by the supreme courts of Michigan and California have given added impetus to this method of financing public projects. Since the court rulings have been handed down several California cities as well as Detroit-Wayne County, Mich., have undertaken projects financed through lease-purchase agreements.

GENERALLY, these agreements work this way: A private contractor puts up a building according to city specifications on land already owned by the city, but leased to the contractor for a token fee. In turn, the builder leases the building back to the city for an annual or monthly rental. At the end of the lease period, title to the building is conveyed to the city without further payments to the contractor, aggregate rental payments having covered the original costs of the building, together with interest.

"This new financing plan is being used chiefly to construct non-revenue producing facilities such as school buildings, fire houses and city halls—all traditionally financed through the issuance of general obligation bonds," the article points out. "With few exceptions, the cost of the facilities as represented by the aggregate rental payments exceeds the legal debt which may be incurred by a city without voter approval, but in no instance is a public election held on the matter as would be required in the case of a bond issue."

TYPICAL of the projects financed by California cities through lease-purchase arrangements are these: Culver City is having an off-street parking lot built. San Clemente has arranged for the development of beach frontage for recreation purposes as well as for construction of a parking lot adjacent to the beach. Santa Monica has financed a municipal incinerator through such an arrangement.

In Michigan, a new Detroit-Wayne County administration building is under construction, financed through the lease-purchase plan. There, an authority was set up to finance the project by issuing bonds payable solely from rentals received from the city and county. Upon retirement of the 30-year bond issue, title to the facility is to be conveyed to the city and county without further payment.

Similarly, Whiteville, N. C., recently completed a new city hall, which was built by a nonprofit corporation specially created for this purpose. The city provided the lot and building materials such as steel, bricks and plumbing fixtures, and the corporation was responsible for the actual construction. Building specifications were set by the city. The city agreed to lease the building at $371 a month for 10 years, after which time it will own the building outright. Currently, the city is receiving $470 a month for space in the building which it does not need and is sub-leasing to other agencies.

THERE IS a considerable difference of opinion regarding the merits of the lease - purchase method of financing the article notes. Proponents of the plan assert that present bond financing regulations requiring popular approval are unrealistic in view of typical bond election turn-outs, the technical question involved in debt financing, and the delay resulting from bond financing.

Opponents of the scheme claim that the public should be given an opportunity to vote on capitol improvement projects involving long-term fixed charges, and that if the people wish to delegate more authority over capital improvement financing to the legislative bodies, constitutional limitation should be amended.

Family Fire Fighting

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Women ought to have fire-fighting know-how and each family should have home fire drills. So states a new booklet, "Fire Fighting for Householders," issued by the Federal Civil Defense Administration. The booklet points out that at least one member of each family should know how to use basic fire fighting equipment. Such training can be obtained through the local civil defense organization.

Imaginary Observations

(President Truman and Chief Justice Fred Vinson in that recent Key West huddle.)

Harry—Shall we take a swim?

Fred—What about the barracuda?

Harry—This is a good chance to find out how much they respect high courts.

Fred—You go in first, Harry; I think the Presidency is held in even greater fear. Or you might send in one of your ghost writers for a test case.

PHILLIPS

Harry—I tried that. The writers all came in safely.

Fred—Is that good?

Harry—I'm beginning to have my doubts. But that's neither here nor there. Listen, Fred, here's what I want to talk to you about . . . how would you like to be President?

Fred—It's much more restful where I am. I have prestige, eminence and peace.

Harry—Yes, but don't you realize that these are times when we must all sacrifice?

Fred—Sacrifice is all very well, but running for the Presidency just now is valor beyond the call of duty.

Harry—I'm surprised at you, an old baseball player, showing satisfaction at staying on the BENCH! You didn't feel that way when you were playing ball.

Fred—True, but the pitching wasn't as tough as you get in politics. The beanball is not only legal in Washington but compulsory. Why do you want to get out?

Harry—The wife. She's fed up.

Fred—Let me talk to her and change her mind.

Harry—Don't be so anxious to get yourself out of this. If I step aside I might like to see you President.

Fred—Isn't she wonderful?

Harry—Who?

Fred—That girl in the pink bathing suit.

Harry—Can't you give me your undivided attention?

Fred—On a Florida beach it isn't too easy, as you must know.

Harry—Hush! There are Republican spies around. Listen, Fred, would you run for the Presidency? . . . Would you like to be in my shoes?

Fred—If you limit it to your shoes, I might consider it, but your general beach attire is something else again.

(They continue the discussion, both growing warmer and more confident under the influence of the Key West climate.)

Harry (taking a deep breath of Florida air)—It's in the bag . . . The Democrats can't lose next year.

Fred (as the birds warble above)—No doubt of it, Harry.

Harry (as the palm leaves make soft music)—Either one of us could run and win pulled up.

Fred—Absolutely!

Both—Isn't it wonderful the effect the Gulf Stream has on things!!!

Executives Club Hears Talk By Former Canadian Mounty

By EMORY ANDERSON

Sidney R Montague, a former Royal Canadian Mounted policeman, told the Marion Executives Club last night of some of his adventures during his 11 years in the organization.

He spoke at a dinner meeting held in the Hotel Harding ballroom attended by about 150 club members and guests.

Montague told the group that he felt the Mounties were exerting peace, rather than force, in Canada, which is 11 million square miles larger than the United States

He said that although Canada has the lowest crime record per capita of any country in the world, the Mounty never draws his gun to make an arrest. He said the mounted policeman is trained to draw his gun only to kill.

Tells Story of Capture

Montague told the story of his capture of an Indian murderer He said he was given orders to look for an Indian in the Yellow Knife tribe which lives high in the Canadian Rockies He went to the town nearest the tribe's country and hired a Yellow Knife Indian, whom he met on the street, to be his guide

Since he did not speak the Yellow Knife dialect and the Indian did not speak English, the two men traveled using only sign language After 11 weeks, Montague said, he and his guide arrived at the land of the Yellow Knife Indians and he met the chief of the tribe who could speak English He asked where the wanted Indian could be found, and the chief said, "You brought him with you"

When asked through an interpreter why he hadn't told who he was earlier, the Indian answered, "You didn't ask me"

Montague said he lived in the Arctic six years with the Eskimos in the Mounties' farthest north post He said that since life there is so rigorous, the Mounty is given retirement at the rate of four years for every one spent in the eternally frozen northland

He remarked at the beginning of his talk that Marion seemed closely linked with the rest of the work in air service He said one plane per day each way was a lot more than a large number of cities Marion's size has

Montague was enthusiastically received by the club members and was asked to return to the stage four times to continue telling of his adventures in the North

Montague now makes his home in California and spends his time writing and lecturing.
